Dope slaying suspect tops city's 'most wanted' list

Arraignment of blamed Jackson killers reset

Two men charged in the Marjorie Jackson murder case will be arraigned next Tuesday instead of last Wednesday, according to Deputy Prosecutor George Montgomery.

The men, Mantel Robinson, 29, and Howard Willard, 39, will be arraigned on charges of first-degree murder, arson, burglary, and conspiracy.

Case met delay after Federal authorities were unable to return Willard and his ex-wife, Marjorie Pollitt, 48, to Indianapolis for the appearance Wednesday in court. Montgomery said. Miss Pollitt and Willard are currently being held for interstate transportation of stolen money. Miss Pollitt also is charged with

Teens arrested in holdup try

A pair of black teenagers were arrested and bound over to juvenile authorities early last Sunday after an internally pre-arranged holdup try at an Eastside fish market, police said.

Patrons of Joe's Fish Market, 1200 East 16th told police an armed youth 15, entered the market about 2 a.m. and placed an order. He then drew a pistol on a market employee, 17, and demanded he give him the money from the register, police said. The employee later confessed he and the armed youth had earlier planned the scheme, police said.

The employee, after the bandit turned his back to holdup several patrons, phoned police from a phone next door to the establishment, police said. When police arrived, one of the officers entered the market as the armed bandit was leaving. Patrons pointed out the teen as a suspect, police said.

Police said they recovered more than $200 in cash and $22 worth of food coupons in the attempted holdup.

An unrelated incident saw three persons arrested on numerous charges stemming from a holdup late last Sunday in the 1700 block of North Meridian, police said.

Arrested on charges of armed robbery of the Steak and Eggs Restaurant, and fleeing an officer were George Buitt, 26, and Robert Miller, 25, both of the 3200 block of North Park. Police also arrested, on charges of armed robbery, fleeing an officer, and possession of injection equipment was Barbara Hammond, same address.

'Love Thy Neighbor Parade' scheduled here Saturday

The parade that has started a tradition in Indianapolis the UC-Vlynn-Pas, Inc., "Love Thy Neighbor" Parade is scheduled for Saturday, August 13, beginning at 9 a.m. at Michigan and Holmes on the city's westside.

UC Vlynn-Pas, Inc., stands for United Community Voluntary Love Your Neighbor. Nurses' Patient's Aid Service, a non-profit private organization which provides services in and around the Indianapolis area. Rev. Rubin Fields Sr., is president.

The parade will start from a site designated for the UC Vlynn-Pas Vocational Center, which will work toward jobs for the formerly imprisoned, provide shelter and clothing for the disadvantaged, and stimulate goodwill.

REV. RUBIN FIELDS SR.

Recorder idea adopted by Police Dept.

CURTIS BURHANNON JR.

A man being sought in the William Toombs "contract slaying" was first to be named to Indianapolis Police Department's "10 Most Wanted List," a roster adopted recently at the suggestion of The Recorder.

Heading the list, which will eventually include the names of 10 persons under extensive police search to equal its Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) counterpart, is Curtis Burhannon Jr., 31, currently being sought on charges of first-degree murder, armed robbery and inflicting injury in the commission of a felony in the July 14 shooting death of the 32-year-old alleged narcotics dealer. Burhannon's father, Curtis Burhannon Sr., was arrested July 29 in the case.

Carter hopeful after talks on S. Africa

WASHINGTON—President Carter said Friday that he and President Julius K. Nyerere of Tanzania had reached "almost complete agreement" about the diplomatic course to be followed in trying to bring majority rule and legal independence to Rhodesia and South-West Africa, or Namibia.

The President gave his optimistic assessment to reporters on the White House lawn after saying goodbye to Nyerere at the end of two days of talks

Black church leaders plan drive to help poor

ATLANTA—Leaders of a number of black churches around the country, spurred in part by the rising influence of young, politically oriented ministers, are seeking to open a drive to increase goods, services and human rights for the poor.

Some of these leaders have been discussing the desirability of such a church-based movement at a conference here of black ministers and theologians sponsored by the interfaith Black Theological Project.

Dr. James Cone of Union Theological Seminary of New York, one of the leading theoreticians of the group, called here for a tough minded reassessment of the church's aims, especially how it spends money, reflecting a rising demand for greater expenditure of the resources and energy on what are considered "liberation" priorities.

"Black theologians and preachers are searching for new ways to confess our faith in God so the black church will not become the religious opiate of our people," he said at the conference.

His book, "Black Theology and Black Power," published in 1969, helped to star the new endeavor, and he has become a leading figure in the development of black theology, which arose in the late 1960s as a response to the black power movement.

As the black power movement faded, churches began to incorporate many of its themes into a Christian context, many black churchmen believe, the fruits of this process are just now beginning to be widely felt, particularly among younger clergymen—exposed to the concepts in seminars.

Clergy are getting to the critical point in terms of their anger about social issues," said the Rev. Muhammed Kenyatta, director of the Black Theology Project. "By now I think the Black Liberation Movement has touched a majority of our pastors."

Renewed pride and increased interest in the church have been reported in many areas. One explanation for this is that many activists have become disillusioned by non-Christian ideologies and returned to the church. Another reason cited for the upsurge is the belief that the church is a singular example of a community institution controlled by the people.

"The church is by far the strongest black institution," said the Rev. Jesse Jackson, founder of the black self-help organization People United to Save Humanity (PUSH), which works through a network of 700 churches. He added:

"Some left the church a few years ago to join other movements, but in fact, most of those movements have gone, and the church remains. The church addresses needs, not fads, and invariably it is the institution most likely to act."

Rev. Jackson and others attribute the growing restiveness to the increasing number of younger, politically aware preachers who have begun to occupy many of the most prestigious pulpits in the country.

While the pressure mounts for attacks on social ills, there is widespread agreement among black church leaders that such efforts are doomed unless the theological rifts and denominational walls that divide them can be overcome. Disunity has long plagued the churches, and moves are under way to bring various groups together in a common cause.

Mayor draws praise from Indy NAACP

The Greater Indianapolis Branch of the NAACP has praised Mayor William H. Hudnut for his sensitivity to the civil rights problems.

After taking office the mayor met with the leaders of the NAACP to express a willingness to listen to civil rights grievance that might occur in the city. He also listened to the request by the NAACP that black citizens be given appointments so that they might be represented on all boards of city government.

The NAACP felt that this would give the black community closer ties to the problems and solutions of the city. The mayor, through his appointments, has kept his word. Blacks are represented on more boards than ever before.

"The mayor's door has been open to NAACP leaders" said Dr. A. D. Pinckney, NAACP president, "and we feel that his open door policy has led to many solutions of problems without a confrontation. This cooperation with the NAACP has made it easier to solve many civil rights problems in our community."

A 16-year-old father of a five-month-old baby was stabbed to death Sunday night near the victim's far-westside home in Haughville.

Victim of the slaying was identified as Ricky Abbron, son of Mrs. Connie Abbron, 904 N. Arnolda. Arrested and currently held in juvenile center is 17-year-old Janice Lee Sparks of 730 N. Arnolda. She reportedly stabbed the younger Abbron during an altercation. He

Recorder publisher among 9 honored at INRC banquet

The Republican Party must change its image, and to be successful in the future the GOP must convince the average citizen that it stands for progress for everyone, and is against no one.

This was the message delivered to Indiana Republican leaders and workers last Saturday evening by U.S. Senator Edward Brooke (R-Mass.) during his principal address at the Frederick Douglass Awards Banquet. Sponsored by the Indiana Black Republican Council and the Indiana Republican Convention-exposition Center, the banquet was held to recognize nine outstanding black Hoosier Republicans for outstanding work in their party and communities.

Rev. R. T. Andrews, pastor of Mt. Zion Baptist Church received the coveted "Frederick Douglass Freedom Award" in recognition of his long-time contributions in the fields of housing for the elderly, the Mt. Zion Day Care Center, and educational programs currently offered in his church.

Recently Mt. Zion opened its new 104-bed geriatric center.

The Republican Party must rid itself of the "perception of negativism" that says it is against people and programs, Senator Brooke told his audience of about 400: "Because our party opposes so many things, it is generally believed that we are against blacks, against the poor, and against the elderly. They say we are a party of race, the party of wealth, and the party of religion."

"These are myths and we have to destroy them," he said. "We must make people understand that we are not just against something, but we are for something."

The Republican Party historically has been for those things which have benefited the people—all the people. Brooke the black member of U.S. Senate, declared, "Our positions in support of those things needed by the people must be explained and presented in a way which cannot be misunderstood by the people or distorted by the Democrats."

Senator Brooke criticized former President Gerald Ford for not campaigning in the black communities during his campaign for re-election last year and said the Republican standard bearer "would be in the White House today" had he done so.

Senator Richard G. Lugar, who served with Senator Brooke on the Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs Committee introduced the speaker.

Norma L. Cummings, chairperson of the banquet, introduced Senator Lugar. The Indianapolis Chapter of the Indiana Black Republican Council was host for the affair. Holton Hayes served as co chairman.

Besides the Freedom Award Republican leaders in three other categories, were also honored. The recipients and their awards are as follows:

Political Leadership Award: Edward H. Smith, Ft. Wayne Attorney who was chairman of the Ft. Wayne Chapter of the Indiana Black Republican Council and its Second Region Chairman.

Outstanding Republicans: Grant Spears Jr., Richmond, is serving his second term as Wayne Township Trustee and has been active in Republican politics for one-half century.

Thomas (Buddy) Parker, Indianapolis, is deputy director of the Indianapolis Department of Administration and serves as area chairman for the Marion County Republican Committee. Outstanding Community Leadership:

Marcus C. Stuart, Indianapolis, has been editor and publisher of the Indianapolis Recorder since 1928. The REcorder has contributed greatly to the advancement of Blacks and the development of the Black community. The Indianapolis Recorder Charities has helped over 15,000 families since 1934.

James T. King, Anderson, is former president of the Madison County Lincoln Club and working with youth has been manager of the Fairview Little League for 13 years, and served on the Anderson City Park and Recreation Board eight years.

Nancy Mayberry, Indianapolis, has volunteered her services to the senior citizen programs throughout Indianapolis for many years. Recently she personally supervised a trip to South America. Hazel Minnefield, Anderson, is state president of the NAACP auxiliary, board member of the state NAACP, and former state president of the Indiana Federation of Colored Women's Clubs. She was a chosen Black Woman Leader in Indiana in 1974.

Rosa Lee Brown, Indianapolis, is president of the Zion Baptist Missionary Education Association, and is a member of the boards of Big Brothers of America, League of Women Voters, YWCA, Urban League, Indianapolis NAACP and SCLC. She was director of the Indianapolis Urban League's Voter Registration Project for three years.

Avis Bell served as chairman of the Awards Committee and made the presentations. Rufus C. Kuykendall, former superior Court Judge, was chairman of the Awards Selection Committee.

Ruth Ross was program coordinator. Norman C. Owens served as Finance Chairman and Charles Williams, ticket sales coordinator. Cleo Barnett was chairman of the hostess, and Cynthia Prime was publicity chairman.

Charles T. Cook, Executive Director of the Citizens Finance Committee for the Republican State Committee, and Assistant Finance Director, Pat Hurley participated in the direction of the program.

Vorster attacks Carter's policy on South Africa

PRETORIA

Prime Minister John Vorster of South Africa has severely attacked the Carter Administration, accusing it of promoting "chaos and anarchy" in southern Africa.

The speech, delivered in the South Africa capital, was unusually severe, describing American policy toward white ruled southern Africa as "strangulation with finesse." At one point, Mr. Vorster implied that President Carter had stepped up pressure for an end to white rule in the region as a means of repaying American blacks who provided the margin of victory in last year's Presidential election.

It suggested to analysts here that the prospects for a Rhodesian peace plan prepared by Britain and the United States, already gloomy, had deteriorated even more sharply.

The speech was not merely a rhetorical rejoinder to the economic and political pressure the Administration has brought to bear on Pretoria. By its wording and timing, it appeared to be a calculated warning that South Africa, after months of quiet cooperation, was close to a complete break with Washington on the most burning issue of the region, Rhodesia.

Prospects for gaining the assent of white Rhodesians to a transition to majority rule on the terms proposed by the United States and Britain depend almost entirely on Mr. Vorster's willingness to apply pressure on Prime Minister Ian D. Smith of Rhodesia. South Africa controls Rhodesia's supplies of oil and arms, as well as its other trade.

Foreign Minister R. J. F. Botha of South Africa will discuss Rhodesia sometime this week in a meeting in London with Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Foreign Secretary David Owen of Britain.

Mr. Vorster, speaking on the 50th anniversary of the founding of South Africa's Department of Foreign Affairs, made no direct mention of Rhodesia. But much of what he said bore on the issue and on South-West Africa, or Namibia, a territory governed by Pretoria under a disputed League of Nations mandate.

The Prime Minister advised reporters beforehand to pay careful attention to what he had to say. Then, adding to his prepared text, he said that Washington's decision to press for an end to white rule throughout the region derived from a desire to "win the favor" of black Africa, with its 50 votes in the United Nations, and an eagerness to reward black Americans.

"It is true that the bulk of Negroes in the United States voted for the Carter Administration," he said, "and it is accepted in the United States and elsewhere that the Carter Administration is at present under pressure from the black caucus and other organization." Reports of criticism of Mr. Carter by prominent American blacks have received wide publicity here.

Mr. Vorster said these factors had influenced the Carter Administration in its adoption of "a certain course," which, if maintained, "can lead to only one thing—chaos and anarchy in southern Africa."

He added: "In other words, if these pressures are persisted in, the end result for southern Africa would be exactly the same as if it was subverted by Marxism. In one case, it will come about as a result of brute force, and in other case it will be strangulation with finesse."

The moves are still being formulated in Washington, but Administration officials have indicated that the United States has observed in recent years.

Potential fire fighters sought by career group

Potential firemen are being sought in the initial venture of International Association of Fire Fighters Labor Recruitment Program.

Persons applying will be oriented to testing procedures of the association's civil service exam. Applicants must have a high school education or equivalent, be between 21 and 35, in good physical condition and have a valid Indiana driver's license.

Starting salary for firemen totals $10,500 a year with three weeks vacation following the first year of employment and 10 days paid holiday time. Up to three months are allotted for sick leave.

Interested persons should contact the association's local office, 3334 North Illinois, 926-1286.

Labor Recruitment Program is part of a Washington D.C.-based national organization.

Careful selection of foods is especially important as we grow older because, although our caloric needs are reduced, our needs for nutrients remain much the same. Most of the foods we eat should contain their fair share of essential nutrients such as vitamins, minerals and protein in relation to calories. We need not eliminate, but we should limit, high calorie foods which offer little in the way of nutrients.

Recognition Day for MEAP pupils slated

Recognition Day for high school pupils who have participated in Purdue University School of Engineering and Technology Minority Engineering Program's Summer II Workshops will be 6:30 p.m. Friday in IUPUI Lecture Hall, Room 101.

A recognition dance will follow at 9 p.m. in IUPUI Union Building Cafeteria. MEAP pupils are asked to donate $1 at the door, and guests will be asked $.75.

Dunn was accidentally shot in the left side of the neck with a .357 service magnum which has left him paralyzed from the neck down. In addition to his paralysis, young Dunn has developed pneumonia, a left lung infection, and continues to deal with other medical complications. Since being hospitalized he has undergone two operations and medical opinion, at this time, has determined that the paralysis is permanent.

In an effort to create a fund which will be used to pay medical and professional expenses, the members of EFURUS Organization, sponsored by Rev. Damon S. Roach, have agreed to stage a fund raising benefit show compiled of various speakers and talents, Aug. 28 at the Atkinson Hotel. Call 283-2292 for additional information.

With the permission from the Harry C. Dunn, Jr. Foundation, the EFURUS Group sees a successful fund raising campaign. Rev. Dr. C.T. Vivian, dean of divinity at Shaw University, will be guest speaker.

Salem Village Festival scheduled for Saturday

The Salem Village Festival will be Saturday. The festival was formulated by the Youth Opportunity Unlimited program under the supervision of J. Bubba Gaines and the councils of Salem village. It is being held to perpetuate the Y.O.U. program.

Contributions from the activity will provide food for the senior citizens of Salem Village at Thanksgiving, Halloween and Christmas parties for tots, plus provide the necessary equipment for the (continued) success of the Y.O.U. program at Salem Village and other areas.

The festival will consist of game booths, exhibits, contests, entertainment, food and Salem Village's first annual dust bowl basketball tournament.

Everyone is invited to this first all day affair. Security and first aid will be provided along with clean-up and maintenance of the complex.

This and many other major activities sponsored by Y.O.U. are designed for the purposes of showing people that a program for the betterment of underprivileged individuals can be successfully carried out with a limited budget, lack of transportation and little voluntary help from a majority of people.

The program shows teenagers that self-sufficiency is not an impossible goal to achieve.

YWCA's ENCORE program will open here August 17

ENCORE, a YWCA post-mastectomy group rehabilitation program, will start in Indianapolis August 17. ENCORE stands for Encouragement, Normalcy, Counseling, Opportunity, Reaching Out and Energies Revived.

It is a program of specially prepared gentle exercises to music in the gym and pool for women recovering from mastectomies. Participants must have permission of their physician and may begin a minimum of three weeks after breast surgery.

During a discussion period, women share concerns from their common experience in a natural, supportive, informal, non-medical environment. Qualified persons may talk with the group periodically to answer questions and share knowledge.

The purpose of ENCORE is to help women feel whole again and give the necessary physical and emotional support for significant personal growth.

An Indianapolis advisory committee of representatives of the physical and mental health fields is directing the formation of the local ENCORE program under the chairmanship of Jane Oglesby, YWCA board member.

The first session will meet Wednesday, August 17, at 2 p.m. in the Jewish Community Center, 6701 Hoover Road. Anyone interested is invited to attend.

Sessions will continue on a regular basis each Wednesday afternoon. Any woman who has had a mastectomy may join the group at any time and continue attending as long as she feels the need for the activity.

For further information call Alice Duncan at the YWCA, 299-2750.

Persons needing transportation or financial assistance should also contact Duncan at the number listed.

Local OIC honors Harvester manager

OIC AWARD: Rev. Mozell Sanders presents award to Dunham.

The Opportunities Industrialization Centers of America (OIC) honored International Harvester's Indianapolis Plant Manager Rodney W. Dunham at a luncheon last Friday. The luncheon was held at Foster's Motor lodge, 2154 N. Illinois.

Rev. Mozell Sanders, OIC Indiana director, says his organization is honoring Dunham for his commitment to helping the plight of the unemployed in Indianapolis' inner-city.

Dunham was instrumental in initiating a new concept of on-site industrial training for OIC students to more adequately prepare them for jobs in business.

The program, started in August 1976, is designed to teach basic engine repair and manufacturing skills to disadvantaged inner-city youths. Its main advantage is that all the training is conducted at the International Harvest Plant on Brookville Road and gives the students the opportunity to learn in a "real work environment."

Since its beginning, the program has gained a national reputation for its effectiveness and efficiency in training the hard-core unemployed. The first class graduate in January 1977 and all were immediately employed. The second class is currently going through training. Sanders says the OIC chose to honor Dunham at this time because he has been promoted to the position of Vice-President of International Harvester's Foundry Division at the company's world headquarters in Chicago and will soon leave Indianapolis.

"Rod Dunham's contributions to our city," says Sanders, "are clearly examples of what business is capable of doing to help our disadvantaged people. Through what Rod has started we will continue to expand so that the day will come when all our poor people who desire to work can be properly trained for meaningful jobs."

Lilly grant to aid students and teachers

The Indianapolis Public Schools has received a $79,200 grant to provide programs which are designed to improve the writing skills in grades two through eight. The grant was given by Lilly Endowment, Inc.

Of the total, $26,500 will be used to implement a program in three elementary schools in which students in grades two through six will write a small book during the school year and then share the completed books with neighboring classes. The book exchange will be extended by placing the student-authored works in the media center of other schools. The authors of outstanding books will be honored at the end of the year.

The $52,700 of the grant used for seventh and eighth grade students will provide a writer's clinic this month for 50 IPS teachers in which various types of compositions appropriate for junior high are read, studied, developed, written and evaluated. The teachers then will take the skills gained into their composition instruction during the school year. The instructional ideas developed from the clinic will be developed into a course of study for use throughout the school system.

Citizens commission wants relief program taken from trustees hands

A statewide coalition of 22 religious, labor, and citizen groups have recommended that administration of Indiana's poor relief program be removed from the offices of township trustees and operated through county offices.

After a year and a half of study, representatives of the Citizens' Study Commission on Poor Relief, on Wednesday, released a 76-page report that suggested Indiana's poor would be better served by a uniform assistance program administered at the county level.

According to Sheila Rosenberg, Commission project director, under the Commission's recommendation, Indiana's general assistance system would be operated through 92 county offices and financed by county and state tax revenues. She said while township trustees would be relieved of poor relief responsibilities, they would continue to administer other township programs.

The Commission, financed by the Lilly Endowment and several private organizations, have been conducting a comprehensive study of Indiana's township trustee system of poor relief since January of last year. Volunteers reviewed the poor relief records of over half of the state's 1,008 township trustees, and conducted over 1,000 personal interviews—339 of them with trustees.

Among needy Hoosiers are unaware of poor relief, and most trustees do not publicize their services.

Many trustees are often unavailable to take applications. Some trustees violate the law by not offering an application to all persons requesting relief; by not having public, written standards; and by not using poor relief forms prescribed by the State Board of Accounts.

There are extreme variations among townships in the types of aid issued. Urban townships generally provide a much broader range of benefits than rural townships.

Nine out of ten poor relief dollars in the state are spent by trustees in urban townships. In a substantial number of rural townships, trustees spend more on administration than on direct relief.

By collecting and analyzing this information and making it available to taxpayers and legislators, we hope to encourage public debate on the merits of the poor relief system," said Ms. Rosenberg.

Over 500 volunteers from across the state helped to collect and evaluate material from questionnaires, interviews, and public hearings, according to Ralph Hays, the Commission's chairperson. During the last year, 13 public hearings in different parts of Indiana were scheduled to solicit the opinions of trustees and other public officials, recipients of poor relief, representatives of social welfare agencies, and other citizens.

Indiana is the only state with a general assistance program administered solely on the township level.

The Commission with 1.6 of its members black, recommendations will be presented Thursday August 11, to the Indiana legislature's Interim Study Committee on Poor Relief, which will complete its report by October 15 of this year. Interested persons may receive information on obtaining copies of the Commission's report by writing to: 129 East Market Street, Room 700, Indianapolis, Ind. 46204.

Singers return from trip

Summer is a time for traveling and the Late-Tone Singers have put in their share. The group has recently returned from a trip to Jackson, Tenn.

Chaufered by Mr. Sheffield in his air-conditioned van, the group arrived in Tennessee Saturday morning where a meal was awaiting them at the Blaire St. AME Zion Church pastored by the Rev. R.M. Richmond. The singers stayed at the Admiral Bimbow Motel.

Sunday morning the choir performed at Blaire St. Church and after a little sightseeing around Jackson, packed up for the trip back home.

The Late-Tone Singers will rest for the month of August, however, they will be ready for program engagements in September. If you are a senior citizen or want to schedule the group, call Nora McLaurin, the business manager, at 546-3772.

The next meeting is at 1 p.m., Sept. 7.

Chatting with the F.A.C.

The lazy, hazy days of summer are quietly moving on and soon the fall activities will be resumed at the F.A.C. Home. The Board of Directors, with twenty-seven members, have divided themselves into groups of three and each group will sponsor a program at the regular Federation meeting nights which will be the second Monday of each month.

The first group consist of Owen Woolridge, chairman of the board; Rosemary Carpenter, secretary; and Simon Reid, vice-chairman. Each group aim will be to increase attendance of meetings. Announcements will be made of all future programs for the pleasure of the membership.

Last winter's programs were sponsored by the elected officers of the federation. All of them were very good. Chester Little, vice-president, won the grand prize for having the largest number in attendance at his program.

The race will be on to win this time. Make all efforts to attend some of the regular monthly meetings of The Federation. In so doing, and registering for the birthday list, your name is published in our Birthday Chatting Column. Meeting dates are the second Monday each month.

The F.A.C. offers its building for family gatherings and wholesome recreation. The month of August is silently slipping away. Greetings from old and new friends are still in order. Best wishes to all of you.

Happy Birthday to the following attendance members of a regular F.A.C. meeting:
August 14, John Starks, 2534 N. Illinois.

August 16, Helen Thelma Puritt, 2715 N. Guilford, Florence Collins 458 West 26th.

August 18, Thelma Harvey, 1257 West 25th St.

There is never a day so dreary, Nor an hour so filled with despair That help is not ours for the asking If we knock at heavens portals in prayer. At the moment we ask, He will answer He doesn't remove every burden. But he always gives strength for the day.

MRS. PAUL A. BATTIES [standing] extends birthday greetings and felicitations to her sister, Mrs. Vivian Terry Moore, at a summer luncheon at the Eagles Nest in the Hyatt Regency Hotel. Others sharing the pleasure of Mrs. Moore's special nativity day and enjoying the luncheon are, following Mrs. Batties, Mrs. Betty Jo Radcliffe Williams, niece of Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Batties; Mrs. Dorothy Law and Miss Juanita Carter. Seated clockwise from Mrs. Moore in foreground are Mrs. Dorothy Glover and Mrs. Annetta Lawson and to the right of Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Joel McCree. It was a beautiful day for Mrs. Moore and others present. They enjoyed the impressive panoramic view of the beautiful city. Mrs. Moore was delighted and appreciative of the beautiful gifts and delightful luncheon for which her sister, Mrs. Batties, served as hostess. The luncheon was a special gift from Mrs. Batties' son, Dr. Paul Terry Batties, for his aunt, Mrs. Moore. It was their desire to make "her day" an especially meaningful and happy one. It was such a day.

Southside Happenings

By OLGA ROBINSON

Residents of the southeast side are wondering what the drawbacks are as to why one cannot have adult education which is so badly needed out here. Why must we go at least 68 miles out of the way.

Although we are told there is a class at St. Francis, we feel we are not wanted because of the conditions that exist in Beech Grove.

If it means petitioning for a class, we will fight for our rights. So, someone please get interested in our plight. We need education also.

Miss Sabrina Phillip, daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Phillip, vacationed with her aunt for three weeks in Milwaukee, Wis. An enjoyable time was had by this young lady.

Marion County 4H Fair is now in session in Wanamaker, Ind. The fair is represented by youths from Center, Perry, Wayne, Warren, Pike and Washington townships.

Livestock, clothing, agriculture, foods and other things are to be enjoyed by one attending the fair.

South Kenwood was the scene of the Goodwill Southside club. It was an enjoyable affair.

Mike playground was named for Edward Denny who was club director and a friend to many southside people. Mr. Denny was a congenial person who was loved and admired by young and old. He knew no racial barriers. The park could not bear a better name.

We welcome our new principal to school #64, Mrs. Rosena Johnson. We hope that the community gives her the same support they gave Mrs. Irene Smith.

One more month and the wheels of fortune called education will start to grind. Learn so that your life will be profitable.

Why not a pre-school? This is where the educational process should really begin. Our pre-school has been removed, phased out, and there is nothing to replace it.

after attending a six week seminar on early childhood education, it seems as though we are lacking greatly. The child learns more in his first five years than any other period in his life.

We need competent teachers and also a free pre-school to replace the one that was phased out. It should be interracially staffed and interracially attended so that the children will learn how to cope with the racial situation today.

Let's get on the ball administrators of IPS, you're dragging your feet.

Sneed-Arnold united in Chicago ceremony

The Progressive Baptist Church, Chicago, Ill. the Rev. Retha Brown, pastor, was the setting for the noon wedding of Jennifer Gail Sneed and Joseph Felix Arnold on August 6. Parents of the couple are the Rev. and Mrs. Leo Sneed, Indianapolis, and Mrs. C.C. Blow, Chicago, Ill.

Miss Sandra Taylor was maid of honor. Caprells Jenkins was the best man. Ms. Johnnie Williams, Evette Johnson, Cheryl Williams, and Delores Ship were the bridesmaids. Kimberly Blow, sister of the groom, and Teedra Taylor were flower girls.

Ushers were Julian Sneed, Michael Blow, Kenneth Blow, Calvin Blow, Sherwin Blow, Derwin Arnold, and Ralph Ship. Paul Williams was the ring bearer.

The bride wore pure white organza fashioned into a graceful gown with an Empire silhouette. Imported Venise lace detailed the Queen Anne neckline on a beautifully fitted bodice. The long, full sleeves were etched and cuffed in lace. Rows of tiny lace flowers outlined the soft and flowing skirt and long self-train. The perfect compliment to this elegant gown was her dainty headpiece. It was covered with matching Venise lace which also trimmed the fingertip length veil.

MRS. JOSEPH FELIX ARNOLD

The groom wore an all white a white Beau tie, and a white "New Chelsea" vested tuxedo.

Traditional wedding unites Ladd, Moore

Miss Sherree Carol Ladd became the bride of Myron Vernon Moore in a traditional religious wedding, Saturday, July 16, at St. John's Missionary Baptist Church, 1701 Martindale Ave.

The sacred altar was lighted with candelabras. It was also decorated with island palms, pulpit bouquets of blue and yellow carnations, communion bench, and antique archway, which was decorated by Mrs. Gwendolyn Kelley.

The traditional ceremony began with Mrs. Ernest White, organist and aunt of the bride, playing traditional wedding music, followed by "You'll Never Walk Alone" sung by Irving Garrett. Next, Mr. Garrett sang "The Lord's Prayer," followed by Mrs. William Squires singing "Somewhere There's A Place for Us."

During the Holy Communion Service, Mrs. Squires, vocalist, sang "We've Only Just Begun" accompanied by Ms. Carol Martin.

The bride was eloquently attired in a white cathedral length gown and matching veil, trimmed in organza lace and pearls.

The maid of honor and bridesmaids wore crepe pleated gowns with matching capelets made of chiffon.

Miss Karlin Rene Ladd, sister of the bride, and dressed in yellow, was the maid of honor. The bridesmaids, Deborah Broadus, Maria Powell, Shari McCray, Bonita White, and Robin Littlejohn were dressed in blue.

The flower girl was Monique Broadus. The ring bearer was Freddie Lockett.

Dwayne Bacon was the best man, and the groomsmen were Ronald Moore Jr., Conrad Moore, Marcus Moore, Herbert Powell, and David Sharp.

The beautiful bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Julian Ladd. Mrs. Ladd wore a stunning yellow sleeveless gown draped with an original matching crepe cape with yellow fringe.

The mother of the groom, Mrs. Ronald Moore, chose a blue gown, made of chiffon and crepe.

Officiating at the religious service was the Rev. Thomas Brown.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Carlton Ladd.

MR. AND MRS. MYRON VERNON MOORE

The wedding was coordinated by Mrs. Mary Jane Chestnut and Mrs. Robert Littlejohn. Hostesses were Mrs. Charlene Hudson, Mrs. Rose Wooden, Miss Jamie Ann Marshall, Mrs. Sue Miller, Mrs. Rose Marie Johnson, and Mrs. Pat Gaines. Miss Robin Bell was a junior hostess.

The catered reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Bettie Lanier, Bethlehem, Penn., maternal grandmother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest White, Henderson, NC, aunt and uncle of the bride; Mrs. Mary Cox, Bethlehem, Penn., aunt of the bride; and Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Phipps, Strawberry Plains, Tenn., brother and sister-in-law of the groom; and Ms. Brenda Davis, New Market, Tenn.

Out of town guests were entertained by Mrs. Ronald Moore. The newlyweds honeymooned in Atlanta and Tennessee.

Sneed

ruffled shirt. The maid of honor wore an apricot gown of polyester knit with short flared sleeves, open v-neck bodice with a choker neckline. She wore a wide apricot straw hat, and short white gloves.

The bridesmaids wore peach gowns of polyester knit, wide peach straw hats and short white gloves. The flower girls wore peach floral gowns. The best man, ushers, and the ring bearer wore dark brown tuxedos with apricot ruffled shirts.

The Rev. Leo Sneed, father of the bride, and pastor of South Calvary Baptist Church in Indianapolis was the officiating minister. The bride was escorted to the altar by her older brother, Carl Sneed. She was given in marriage by her mother.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Fellowship Hall of the church with Mrs. Charlene Johnson and Chantal Sneed serving as hostesses.

Following the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Collins, cousins of the bride, hosted a cook-out at 9238 S. Bishop, Chicago, in honor of the newlyweds.

The bride is a graduate of Illinois State University, Normal, Ill. with a master's degree in special education. She was formerly employed by the Peoria Association for Retarded Citizens as a Hearing and Vision Therapist.

The groom is a graduate student at Illinois State University. Upon completion of his studies for a master's degree in business administration, he plans to enroll in law school.

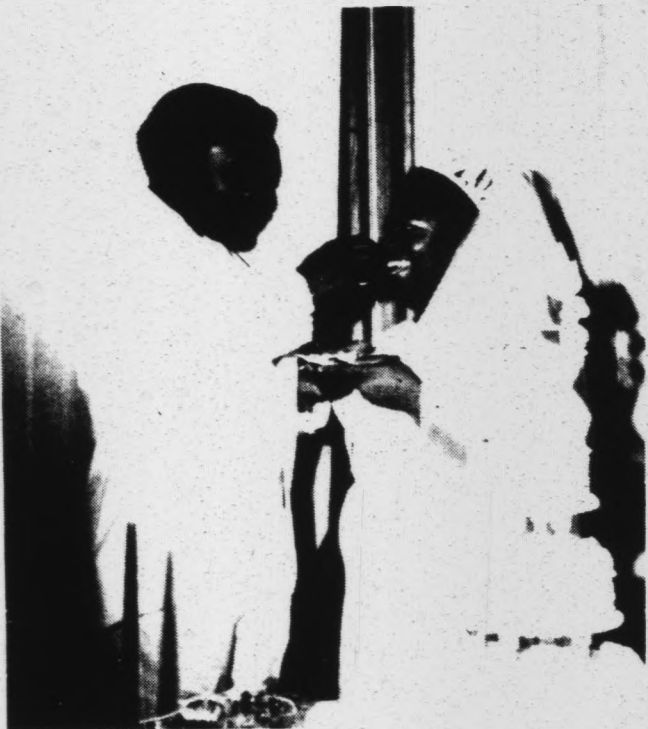

The couple will reside at 204 Oak St., Normal, Illinois.

THE MEN, without a doubt one of the city's more prominent social clubs, will be presenting their Aqua II Matinee Sunday, August 14, from 3-8 p.m. at the Falcon Creek Condominiums Clubhouse, 4349 Falcon Creek Boulevard. Featured will be the Glasshouse Band, and tickets are $2.50 advance and $3.00 at the door. Tickets may be obtained at Big Fella's Ice Cream Parlor, Fish Market, and Bar-B-Que Pit, College and Fairfield. For additional information call 926-9928, 923-0957, or 546-3759. Door prizes will be given.

Henson, Miller exchange vows

MR. AND MRS. JAMES MILLER

JoAnne Henson and James Miller exchanged marriage vows at 4 p.m. Saturday, July 2, in Metropolitan Baptist Church in a double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Dock and Dorothy Henson, 3850 N. Capitol. Mother of the bridegroom is Jimella Miller from Indolna, Miss.

Victoria Whorton was the matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Lynn Henson and Karen Bentley. Their gowns were peach knit with chiffon overflows. Leighshelle Boyd was the flower girl.

Willie J. Porter was best man. The groomsmen were Gene Lofton and William Miller. Desmond Whorton was ring bearer.

A reception was held at Mayfield Green Apartments. The couple is residing in Indianapolis.

Mrs. Lena Martin is county senior queen

MRS. LENA MARTIN

Lena Martin, 70, 3750 N. Capitol, was crowned senior queen of Marion County during ceremonies at the County Fair Coliseum Sunday.

Mrs. Martin represented Heritage Place Senior Citizens Center, sponsored by the University Park Christian Church in the contest sponsored by the Marion County Council on Aging.

Also honored at the crowning ceremony were members of the Queen's court: Dorothy Newby, Holiday House; Nelle Wehlage, Near Eastside Multi-Service Center; Mildred E. Gilmore, Indianapolis Senior Citizens Center, and Norine Mattox, Salvation Army Senior Citizens Center.

Mrs. Martin and her court were chosen in a public contest chaired by Mrs. Margaret Canady, member of the Near Eastside Multi-Service Center and assisted by Kathryn Snedecker, program coordinator of Near Eastside Multi-Service Center and representatives of 15 other senior citizen groups.

The Queen and her court were welcomed by James Gardner, president of the Marion County Fair Board and by Mistress of Ceremonies, Eddie Sparks, Director of the Senior Citizen Programs for the Indianapolis Parks Department. Representing the Marion County Council on Aging were Mrs. Maria Murray, Mrs. Harriet Thompson, and Martin Miller.

Eloise Sawyer, the 1976 Marion County Senior Queen, passed her crown and her reign to Mrs. Martin. "Yesterways Again," a senior citizen choral group, presented the program.

Mrs. Martin will now compete with two other lovely senior women, Mrs. Julia Hyten, Hendricks County Senior Queen, for the title of Central Indiana Senior Queen.

The winner of the Central Indiana Senior Queen competition will vie with 15 other senior queens from the seven counties surrounding Marion County. The Central Indiana Senior Queen will then be sponsored as a candidate for the Indiana Senior Queen, by the Central Indiana Council on Aging.

The reigning queen of the Indiana State Fair contest, to be held August 17, will exercise her office as "Ambassador on Aging" in the Senior Citizens Building throughout the fair. She will participate on boards of the Indiana Commission on Aging and serve as public speaker at numerous senior citizen events during her year's reign.

Eastside news

BY CLEMA V. ROGERS

JUST BE GRATEFUL:

"When things are not working right for you, don't scramble, fret and stew. Stop and think how blessed you are; there are those more wretched than you.

Just be grateful for the little things you take for granted each day, like the weather, when fair, and the courage you dare to try again when all seems lost, and emerges at any cost.

For this be grateful for home and family who are dear though some are away, they seem so near, and for pain that helps us understand the sufferings of other lands.

This too be grateful to see, to hear, to walk, to talk, to love and be loved, for friend and foe, for even our woe; for work, for play, for each hour of the day.

For this let us be grateful for the will to live when hope is gone and all around there seems a storm and darkness as black as night for the faith that lets us see the light. For this I am grateful.

And when we have finished what we were placed here to do, and the final call has come for you, don't pity yourself with tears of regret; there's another life waiting for you yet for this be very grateful." The preceding was composed and contributed by Mrs. Lettie Tennelle.

Adult high school completion courses will be offered this fall in four branches of the Indianapolis-Marion County Library.

They are Brightwood, 2435 N. Sherman Dr.; Eagle, 3325 Lowery Rd.; Emerson, 3642 N. Everson Ave., and West Indianapolis Public Schools.

Classes will begin in each library the week of September 12 and will meet once a week, mornings or evenings, for 16 weeks. Twenty high school credit subjects, both elective and required, will be offered.

Registration is scheduled at the Brightwood and Emerson libraries on Tuesday, August 15, 22 and 29; at Eagle and West Indianapolis libraries on Tuesday, August 16, 23 and 30.

Interested persons may register at Brightwood from 9-10 a.m. and 5-6 p.m. on the above dates. Registration at Emerson will be from 10:30-11:30 a.m. Deadlines for registration is September 12.

The four library branches were chosen for the high school completion program because of their location in areas where a high percentage of residents have not completed high school.

Subjects offered are English I through VI, U.S. History I and II, basic math I and II, government, economics, health, psychology, family living, and consumer education. An adult may select a maximum of four courses a semester.

Gay Lites Club list activities

For the past three months, the Gay Lites Social and Civic Club, Inc. has been quite busy with civic projects, a trip to Las Vegas and "A Day at Riverdowns" Race Track in Cincinnati.

The Gay Lites held their May meeting in the home of Mrs. Thelma Rucker, who served as hostess for Mrs. Vera Samuels. Final plans were completed for the Gay Lites trip to Las Vegas.

On July 7 through 10, several Gay Lites club members and friends left Indianapolis via TWA to Las Vegas and resided at the MGM Hotel. Those members traveling were Mesdames Jean Smith, Christine Ross, Amy Price, Carolyn Lee and Edythe Chenault.

Friends joining with their travel were Mesdames Edith Peterson, Sandra Thomas, Rosemary Richmond, and Juanita Royster. All had a most fabulous time while in Las Vegas.

The June meeting was held in the home of Mrs. Cordelia Randall. Final plans were completed for the civic project and the club voted to contribute $100 to the Sylvia Boyd Fund which is sponsored by the Indianapolis Recorder.

The July meeting was held in the home of Mrs. Barbara Wiggles on North Oakview Drive. Plans for "A Day at the Races" were finalized. Also, at this meeting, the President appointed Mrs. Wiggles to serve as Club Reporter.

The Gay Lites departed Indianapolis on Saturday morning, July 23, by chartered bus to Cincinnati with their families and friends for "A Day at the Races". A lovely day was spent with lunch in the Club House.

The management at Riverdowns named a race for the Gay Lites and a trophy was presented by the club to the winner of the 8th race. The club program chairman, Mrs. Carolyn Lee, presented the trophy accompanied by Mrs. Jean Smith, president; Mrs. Christine Ross, vice-president, and the club's junior sweethearts, Scott Lee and Michael Wiggles.

The next meeting will be in September in the home of Mrs. Edythe Chenault at which time fall activities will be discussed. The club expressed their gratitude to Mrs. Lee and her committee for two well planned and enjoyable trips.

Coteries fete member with birthday party

Mrs. Dorothy Cheatham was showered with gifts and cards last week when the Coteries celebrated her birthday.

A turkey dinner with all the trimmings was served along with a cake decorated with "Happy Birthday Dot" and a wishing well. Mrs. Velma Shelton was the hostess.

Guests for the evening were Mrs. Ruth Hathaway of Detroit, Mich.; Mrs. Ruth Sams of Los Angeles, Calif.; and Mrs. Georgia Adams from Indianapolis and sister of the hostess.

Mrs. Adams won the guest prize. Other prizes were awarded to Mrs. Edna Watkins, Mrs. Edwina Dulin, Mrs. Mayme Board and Mrs. Elise Creighton for high scores in bridge.

Other members attending were Mrs. Beatrice Bowles, Mrs. Louise Brannon, Mrs. Mary Pendegraph, Mrs. Emma Lou Young and Mrs. Virginia Jones, the president.

The Coteries, which organized in 1928, are now making plans for their 50th anniversary.

Hawaii vacationers return

How would you like to tour Hawaii for a week? Well, Mrs. Mary Kathryn Venable and Mrs. Geneva Witt Porter did just that. They spent a week at the Hilton Hawaiian Village Diamond Head Town in Honolulu.

They began their vacation Friday morning by being guests at a Waikiki welcome breakfast. They then toured the Civic Center, East-West Center, the University of Hawaii and the Manoa Valley residential area. Friday evening the pair attended the Al Harrington Luau at the King Hamameha Hotel.

Saturday morning was spent at the Alama Shopping Center. The evening was highlighted with the Dick Jensen dinner show at the Oceanic Floating Restaurant.

A Pear Harbor cruise was on for Sunday morning. On Monday, the women toured the Polynesian Cultural Center and visited six villages, had dinner and viewed the Pageant of the Canoes.

The Kodak Hula Show was seen Tuesday morning and Wednesday was spent touring the Hawaii National ark. After a visit to the Dale Pineapple Plant and the International Market Place, Mrs. Venable and Mrs. Porter concluded their enjoyable trip and journeyed back to the city.

Carter hopeful Dope slaying

devoted almost entirely to the problems of Southern Africa.

Carter said he and Nyerere would try to carry out their purposes in that volatile area "working as closely as we can together, while recognizing that many other nations and leaders will be involved."

The administration especially hopes that Nyerere will be willing to rally the presidents of other countries situated near Rhodesia and other leaders of the Patriotic Front, which is directing a guerrilla war against Rhodesia's white minority government behind new British-American proposals aimed at a peaceful transition to majority rule.

"We hope and expect that the basic premises of the so-called British and American plan would be supported by President Nyerere," Carter said, "and so far as I know, they are."

At news conference in Blair House prior to his final session, with Carter, however, Nyerere again emphasized his belief that it was too late to expect a peaceful transition of power in Rhodesia, and that the most British and American diplomacy could now accomplish would be to "shorten the war."

Nyerere did say that his talks with Carter had left him with hope that the United States would use part of its economic and political power to support what he called "the liberation struggle in southern Africa." He made it clear that he expected no arms of military support from the United States or other Western countries.

The Tanzanian leader said that if the British-American proposals on Rhodesia called for elections on the basis of one man, one vote, and for getting rid of the white Prime Minister, Ian D. Smith, "I see no reason why the nationalist and their friends should not look at them."

The new proposals on Rhodesia, which are known to provide for elections on the basis of one man, one vote, will be put into final form when Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance meets Britain's Foreign Secretary, David Owen, in London on Friday.

Nyerere's eventual support is regarded as crucial because he is influential with the patriotic Front leaders, Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe, some of whose forces train in Tanzania, and because he is chairman of the so-called "front-line" presidents of the five countries on or near Rhodesia's borders.

President Carter disclosed that Vance hopes to be able to meet Nyerere in London sometime this week after he has conferred with Owen, and perhaps also with South Africa's Foreign Minister, Roel F. Botha.

Carter's new employment bill directed at youth

WASHINGTON--President Carter signed last Friday a bill meant to ease the plight of youths who are unemployed and said it showed concern of his administration and of Congress in helping the poor and blacks.

Three black leaders invited to the White House for the bill signing sent substitutes instead but two of them denied that any snub of Carter was intended.

Carter quarreled publicly last month with one of the three, Vernon Jordan, executive director of the National Urban League, after Jordan expressed disappointment in Carter's record on social issues. He said Carter had "fallen short" on his campaign promises.

Carter's response amounted to a stern reprimand of Jordan. He called such criticisms unfounded and said they "hurt" the poor by making them lose hope in government.

The bill will set in motion a $1 billion program to offer jobs and training to about 200,000 young people, among whom unemployment is widespread, including 35,000 members of a proposed Youth Adult Conservation Corps. The corps is patterned after the Civilian Conservation Corps, created during the Depression.

In signing the bill before an audience, which was to include by invitation Rev. Jesse Jack-

Police say gambling, loan shark operation stymied with arrest

The gambling-loan shark operation in Indianapolis received a severe blow this week with the arrest of a 48-year-old man who, it is rumored, offered a $10,000 reward nine years ago in the death of his brother, according to police.

The arrested man was identified as Elmer Woodson Jr., 48, 4560 Forest Manor. Police said they kicked in his door Monday afternoon and confiscated 1,418 marked bank clearing slips, $275 in cash, and six ledgers, reportedly containing the names of persons who have borrowed money in the loan shark operation.

Woodson's brother, the 31-year-old Anderson Woodson, was found shot to death Dec. 21, 1968, in a parked car in a vacant lot on the near northeast side. Police believed, at the time, the murder was connected with the loan-shark operation.

Two others were arrested at two industrial plants late last week and earlier this week.

In the latest arrest, police said they raided the Woodson home, believed to be a count house for a local numbers operation, at about 4:15 p.m. According to reports, Woodson was found in the basement attempting to burn money and bank clearing slips in an incinerator.

According to police, four of the ledgers found were dated from 1966 to 1968 and, according to vice detectives, appeared to be records of Anderson Woodson's activities in the loan shark operation.

Captain Mack Crockett, head of the vice squad said other ledgers found listed amounts owed, plus interest, usually 25 percent. Also listed as confiscated were two adding machines and a calculator.

Also arrested in the raid were Woodson's wife, Mrs. Nellie Woodson, 40, and Edward Cole, 3143 N. Capitol. Woodson and Cole were charged with keeping and frequenting a dive.

They appeared in Municipal Court Tuesday and were released without bond. They are scheduled for another appearance Sept. 30.

was dead on arrival on Wishard Memorial Hospital.

Her arrest almost caused a riot in the westside neighborhood when neighbors, relatives and friends attempted to form a "vigilante group to get" the suspect, and that caused problems for police when residents attempted to disband the group.

In an unrelated slaying, a 41-year-old northside man was shot and killed following an argument with his roomie in the 3200 block of N. Guilford. According to police, the argument was over the possession of a "tomato plant."

Police reported that David Jeffries, 3229 N. Guilford, was shot in the face at about 8:10 p.m. and died shortly after midnight. Police called to the address found the victim lying on the floor dead of a gunshot wound in the face. A .38 caliber revolver was found on the kitchen floor.

According to detectives, 28-year-old Robert Morris and Jeffries had argued about an uprooted tomato plant in their garden, with each one blaming the other.

Church Events

By WILLA THOMAS
The thought I would like to share with you this week comes from The Visitor, the newsletter of Northside Baptist Church, and is entitled, "The Parable of the Baseball Team." "Behold, a ball team went forth to play. Just as the umpire was saying, "Batter up," the catcher for the home team arrived and took his place. The center fielder didn't show up at all, but later sent his regrets and said that he had to go to a chicken dinner at Aunt Mary's. The third baseman, likewise, failed to come to the game, having been up late the night before and desiring to spend the day in bed. The shortstop was present, but he had left his glove at home. Two substitutes were away, but had sent word that they would be there in spirit.

"Verily, when the pitcher went into the box, he looked around for his team-mates, and lo, his heart was heavy, for their places were empty. But, the game was announced and the visiting team was on the field. There were fans in the stands and there was nothing to do but pitch the ball and hope for the best.

"So, the pitcher tightened his belt and stepped onto the mound and did his best-for he had to serve as pitcher, first baseman, and third baseman. There were loud "boos" from the stands while the home team was hopelessly slaughtered. It was a disgrace to the noble game of baseball!

"When the absent members of the defeated team heard that their team had lost, a decision was made to get a new pitcher."

REMEMBER: It take the whole gang to get the job done, not just part of the team.

The Nurses Unit of First Baptist will hold their anniversary program Sunday at the church with a special program at 3:30 p.m. All nurses of the city are invited to attend. Mrs. Rose Bridgest is president.

The Presbyterian Synod Mission Events Conference for the church members of the Lincoln Trails will be held Sept. 23 and 24 at Tabernacle United Presbyterian Church. Make reservations at once through the Presbyterian office.

Members of First Baptist Church, North Indianapolis.

The Rose of Sherron Unit of Barnes United Methodist Church will meet Sunday, Aug. 14, for a call meeting in the home of Mrs. Thelma Jones at 4 p.m. All members are urged to be there. Mrs. Ruth Nance is chairman.

Get well greetings go out this week to Mrs. Helen Clayton, a dear Christian who works to serve God and His church from her home. She has been a shut-in for many years.

CORRECTION - The money from the Vacation Church School at Mt. Paran Baptist will go to missions rather than CROP. Mt. Paran does give in a big way to CROP and we are grateful.

HARRINGTON-In memory of our dear mother MRS. BEATRICE HARRINGTON who passed away August 8, 1973. Remembrance is a golden chain. Death tries to break but all in vain. To have, to love and then to pass. Is the greatest sorrow of ones heart. The years may wipe out many things. But, this they wipe out never. The memory of those happy days. When we were all together. Sadly missed by-Children Eloise, Louise, Curtis, Sam.

Accepting God's way

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the final of a four-part series on "Man's Being" By Elder David Howard Jr., minister of Jesus Christ House of Prayer, 3455 Guilford.)

By ELDER DAVID JR.

ELDER HOWARD

I have talked with people who say, "I am not ready to serve God." I ask some, "Why do you use all that he provides for survival if you are not ready to thank him for the use of them?" And sometimes I ask others, "What do you think would happen to the all of us if God would remove all of his power from the earth? The powers for food to grow, the sun, moon and stars to shine; the wind to blow, rain to fall, earth to stay in tact, the heavens to remain and provide our supplies, the life in fish and animals for meats, the communication system for us to work with each other, and many other things that I am not able to think about? Please do not forget about the power that is in his word for salvation. The power that is in that he used to make you and me.

The word of God has declared that we all know in part. Therefore, we all have to contribute a part for our survival. This makes me know when I hear someone say, "I am independent," he is not speaking the truth, and is without understanding. No one can survive without another.

To me independent means "having no need of anyone." God's system was not set up in this manner. When Jesus gave his disciples the prayer, it included all. We petition God for anything, it is to be done for all. We are to say, "Give US this day, OUR daily bread, and forgive US OUR debts, as WE forgive OUR debtors, and lead US not into temptation, but deliver US from evil."

This makes me know that we are to consider all and work together to better the conditions for all. We are one human family with one enemy, Satan the devil. There are some who disregard God's method of consideration for the other, and allows Satan to bring thoughts to their minds, which causes hate to be in their hearts. Then their bodies began doing things that is against God's will toward their fellowman. Many who pray the prayer that Jesus gave his disciples have not really looked at that prayer and sought out the meaning. They ask God to forgive them as they forgive their debtor. Yet they are not willing to forgive. However much one wants to be forgiven that is how much he will forgive the other person.

Some pray, but are blind, to what they are saying because of unbelief. They are blind when they allow Satan to deceive them with his lying devices. Some think that they are to agree or disagree with the word of God, before it can be effective to them. God did not say man had to agree or disagree to be saved. He said that he that believe and is baptized, would be saved. God has all that man needs. All man has to do is believe God, and he can have whatever he wants. If he accepts God's way, he will benefit, but if he refuses, he will perish. (The choice must be made by him.)

God do not need man to be his counselor and as soon as man realize this, he will fair much better in this life, and get himself ready to live in the next. Because of God's love and grace, man is given the chance to live again with him. No man was ever asked to agree or disagree with God. He is the King of Kings, The Lord of Lords. He is superior to all. Then who is qualified to be his counselor?

Satan, the devil, uses these worldly goods to deceive many with. Had Adam not sold out to him, he could not be able to do this. Man can still defeat him, if he accepts God's way. God's way is to, "Seek the Kingdom of God and his righteousness first, and all of these things will be added." All of this has to be done in the name of Jesus. To all who seeks the things of the world, and not seek the Kingdom of God, Jesus said, "What would a man profit if he should gain the whole world, and then die and lose his own soul? Or what would man give in exchange for his soul?"

Man who puts everything, before God and his neighbor, cannot do without either. He must depend on God for everything, and his neighbor to help him get things done that are essential for his survival. To me, this world is a flower garden, with us humans being the flowers and God being the owner. Remembering that all flowers grows together as the owner see fit, and when he gets ready to make a bouquet for himself, he is the one who does the removing, or replanting. No flower has the authority to remove another.

Then again, I picture this world as a house; the King provides for us to live for awhile, and everyday he makes it known that he is going to destroy the house that we are now living in. But before destroying it, he gives the invitation to all. This invitation was brought by his son Jesus. All who accepts, will be able to move into his Kingdom with him.

Man was made to be second in command to God in this world, and nothing would be impossible to him, if he would accept, depend on and obey God's way without question.

There is no greater love than God's; it is there whenever needed.

Indiana Baptist State Women's Missionary Convention convenes

MRS. ANNA THOMAS

By WILLA THOMAS

MUNCIE--

The 80th Annual Session of the Indiana Baptist State Women's Missionary Convention opened here August 10 with the theme, "Christian Life Style-Century III." Sister Anna Thomas of South Bend is president.

Sessions got underway Wednesday with sunrise services scheduled for Thursday morning with Mrs. Willa Smith of Indianapolis in charge.

The music committee, with Mrs. Mable Washington in charge, was to present special music Thursday, followed by an address by Mrs. Leanna Maggard of Indianapolis. One of the highlights of Thursday's program was to be the annual address by the president, and the election of officers. Rev. John R. Stevenson, moderator

MRS. HELEN HAYES

MRS. VIRGINIA HAYES

Final rites for Mrs. Helen (V. Thornton) Hayes, 80, 141 West 41st, were held Tuesday, August 9, in Grace Apostolic Church, of which she was a member, with the burial in Crown Hill Cemetery. She died Saturday, August 6, in Methodist Hospital. She was a member of the Missionary Society of her church.

Let's Get It Together

By Nettie Lester

DEAR NETTIE: I would like to tell you that I am enjoying my life very much. I am a student at Tech High School and I am involved in many school activities. I am also involved in the Girls Club. The problems that I do have I am able to resolve them myself.

I wish all people cared more about the world as I do. Maybe this world would be a better place to live in if more people cared. Well, I just wanted to let you know what I think about the world and how I am doing.

DEAR T. R.: I am glad to know that you are enjoying your life in the various areas of interest that you have. I hope you will continue to have a happy life at Tech and as a member of the Girls Club. As

HERMAN ANDERSON
Funeral services for Herman Anderson, 70, 565 Massachusetts, were held Saturday, August 6, in Kirk Funeral Home. He died Tuesday, August 2, in Veterans Hospital. He was a World War II Army veteran. He was a member of Mt. Zion Baptist Church and a waiter many years at the former Claypool Hotel. He was a member of the American Legion and a physical education director at the old Senate Avenue YMCA.

Survivors include a sister, Mrs. Roberta Elbert.

MARK A. BROWN

Funeral services for Mark Anthony Brown, 16, 5671 N. Illinois, were held Saturday, August 6, in St. Philip Episcopal Church, where he was a member, with burial in Crown Cemetery. He died Thursday, August 4, in his home. He was a junior at Broad Ripple High School and a lifelong resident here.

Survivors include his mother, Mrs. Pamela McFarland Baird; father, William H. Brown, Jr.; stepfather, Dr. Melvin Baird; three brothers, William H. Brown III, Andre and Benjamin Baird; three sisters, Miss Michelle R. Brown and the Misses Callie L. and Nichole M. Baird, and his grandfather, William McFarland, city.

long as you stay busy doing positive things, you will have less time to think of a past-time, such as "how to get in trouble." My Prayers are with you!

DEAR NETTIE: There is a boy whom I love very much. He lives in Kentucky and he is very jealous of my going out with some friends. He gets very angry about this. He doesn't expect me to get angry if he goes out on me. What do you suggest? I am fifteen-years-old. Brenda

DEAR BRENDA: I think that you are too young to get mixed up with a boy who is "very jealous!" You are not married to this boy nor is he married to you. I believe that if the two of you cannot leave jealousy out of your relationship, you are headed for much trouble and may do well to find other friends. The next time you communicate with him, express your true feelings about his attitude. His response should help you to make a wise decision.

DEAR READERS: THE WAY IS MADE - DO WE DARE FIND IT? WE CAN FIND IT - DO WE DARE LOOK FOR IT? WE CAN SEE IT - DO WE DARE OPEN OUR EYES?

The Story of Madame C. J. Walker

A remarkable woman who struggled with a life of poverty and became a self-made millionaire.

Widowed at age 20, $1.50 in her pocket, Sarah Walker took in washing and ironing to support herself and her baby daughter.

In her spare time she experimented with mixtures and preparations for the scalp and hair. Her discoveries were an immediate success. She died in 1919 at the peak of the development of the vast Walker empire and left behind a million dollar manufacturing house in Indianapolis, a four-story office building in New York, a half-million dollar 20-room mansion on the Hudson, beauty schools in ten cities and real estate holdings in Indianapolis and Michigan.

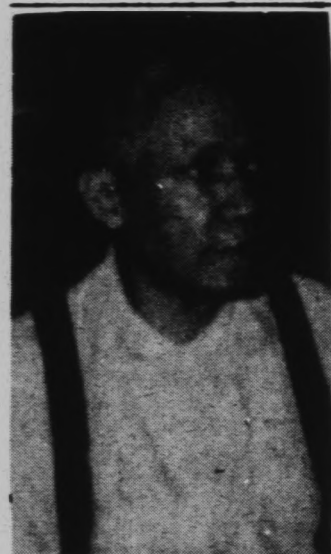

For a fascinating look at this unique woman don't miss the WRTV special:

When I Tell You

BOB WOMACK SR.

Hi There Fans:

GOSSIP: On the national entertainment front the cats and the gals are still buzzin' about the alleged behind the scenes "goings-ons" among some of the cast members during the recent location appearance of the stage production, "Guys and Dolls." The show was featured at the Aladdin Hotel in Las Vegas, co-starring Clifton Davis and fine fox Leslie Uggams.

A dude, or dudes, circulated some vicious and ugly rumors that not only include the names of Leslie and Clifton, but that of Michael Jackson as well. The gossip had it that Michael was going to undergo a sex change so he could marry Davis. Also, the story was put out that the "Guys and Dolls" production had become a stormy, battling "Peyton Place" with all the central characters fighting for top billing. And the lie that Leslie and Clifton had discovered each other romantically while performing together, and were not only affectionate on stage, but off-stage as well.

We understand when the word of the above story leaked to Leslie's white husband, he flew to "Vegas" for some answers. They had a private exchange among themselves. You know what I mean. The latter statement is just another rumor as far as this reporter is concerned. And that also goes for the story "that when Michael Jackson got wind of Davis' interest in Leslie, he too, hopped a flight to Las Vegas to see if the gossip was true, which resulted into a heavy argument of yelling and screaming!! In the event you are looking for the truth in the above news-story, go back and read between the lines...Believe Me!

FILMS: George Scheck has just sold a movie outline of "The Clayton Powell Story" to Universal Pictures. He is business manager to pianist Hazel Scott, the late congressman's one-time wife, and her son, Adam Clayton Powell III, who's head of CBS radio network news... "A Piece of The Action," that new funnier than ever Sidney Poitier-Bill Cosby flick, will have its New York City premiere on Friday, Oct. 7... "Greased Lightning," the story of stock car champion Wendell Scott, has opened in five cities to good rave reviews. Currently it is appearing here.

Kenneth Brown, who drew the original sketches for Bill Cosby's "Fat Albert," "Old Weird Harold," "Mush Mouth," "Crying Charlie," and "Dumb Donald," won't be able to share in their profits. A breach-of-contract suit he filed in U.S. District Court in Philly was tossed out because the statute of limitations had run out.

In the August issue of Esquire, Lena Horne recalls her disillusioning Hollywood days when she begged MGM for the part of "Julie," the mulatto in the 1951 remake of "Show Boat." The role went to Ava Garner. "Hollywood didn't make me into anything else, either," says Lena. "I became a butterfly pinned to a column, singing away in movie-land." Orde Coombs traces her career that has been a barometer of social changes for the past 40 years in "Lena Horne Is Sixty."

Jim Brown is making his debut as a producer in his "Do They Ever Cry In America?", a World War II interracial adventure-love story made for $300,000 in the Philippines. He thinks it is an act of small faith and transparent patronization to use Black producers only in the making of Black films.

SPOT NEWS: Black humor on TV Thursday nights this fall will see Richard Pryor on NBC-TV from 9-10 p.m. and Redd Foxx on ABC-TV from 10-11 p.m....Trazana Beverly has left her role on Broadway to perform the same role in Los Angeles of "For Colored Girls Who Have Considered Suicide When The Rainbow Is Enuf." ...In Washington, D.C., the Duke Ellington School of The Arts is accepting applications for the coming school year. The school offers a full four-year academic high school program bolstered by art courses.

The Isley Brothers are still going strong after being in the profession for the last 18-years. Their latest album hit, "Go For Your Guns," has been certified platinum for sales in the excess of one million...Jimmy Castor's single of "King Kong" has resulted in a gold platter in Japan, which goes to show this group is heavy in more countries than one...Little Ralph Carter of "Good Times" is reported to be losing many of his fans and friends due to his cocky ways...Mike Douglas has Stephanie Mills, "The Wiz," the Broadway star, set for his telecast of "Teen Success Makers."

TID-BITS: My long-time personal friend, Richard "Head" Hunter, former staff member of Sam's Liquor Store (27th & Harding St.), is currently manager of Stark's Market, located at Roache and North Harding. The dude is very popular in the neighborhood. Sales should increase with him on the job...Believe Me!

We are sorry to learn of the recent demise of Herman "Piggie" Anderson. He was well-known on the local civic scene. At one time, he was health (gym) director on the staff of the late Senate Avenue YMCA. It is true, Herman is gone, but he will never be forgotten...Many thanks to the Joe Moore Realty Company for

COMMODORES reportedly selling out on their 1977 summer tour with the Emotions and Slave. The three are among the season's hottest draws, with each having top 10 singles ("Easy," "Best Of My Love" and "Slide," respectively) on national rhythm and blues lists. Tour stopped here, minus Slave and scheduled opener Floater, two weeks ago in Market Square Arena. For those who missed the show, Commodores promise a "live" LP edited from the tour, to possibly hit racks later this year.

Once again--

Dells stand test of time

By LYNN FORD

Time played an important role in the Dells career once again and they reigned supreme--once again.

More than 400 people didn't seem to mind at all the late hour the five-man musical phenomina hit the stage last Saturday night for the Defiants Club's 12th Temptation Ball. And they enjoyed each note the 25-year veterans churned out, even though listeners might have called time between numbers to sneak in a much-needed yawn. It was that late for some.

The group took to the stage almost a half hour before the ball's scheduled 2 a.m. closing. A warm up group, called Ultimate, covered for the Dells' unexplained lateness. But when they finally arrived, they went over like gangbusters.

Most of the tunes in the hour-long set (it ended about 3 a.m.) were familiar, with the group, Verne Allison, Chuck Barksdale, Johnny Carter, Marvin Junior, and Mickey McGill, mixing numbers from their new "They Said It Couldn't Be Done, But We Did It" album with tunes the crowd obviously was there to hear: the oldies.

Songs like "Stay In My Corner," and "Oh, What A Nite" quickly emptied seats and filled the center dance floor. The group's harmony was tight throughout the set, and their choreography professionally smooth.

The sound at times was good, especially for slower numbers, and other times a bit muffled; possibly because of the hall's compact size. A studio-like backup band complimented the group's tight vocals, which at times had a bit too much tenor, and messed up what could have been perfect vocal sound.

A dramatic interpretation of Streisand's "The Way We Were" was the best song of the set (besting hit single "Our Love" by a couple miles), as the lead vocalist appeared really into the number. The song set the show's mood; as the set basically appeared to have the group proving they're still around.

And they are--they're still around.

'Stop' to open IRT's 1977-78 stage season

Indiana Repertory Theatre at Christian Theological Seminary will open its 1977-78 play season with 12 performances in three weekends of "Stop the World, I Want to Get Off."

Performances of the play, last performed on IRT's stage in 1972, are scheduled for September 16-18, 23-25, and 30-October 2. Times are 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays, and 3 and 7 p.m. Sundays.

'Bicentennial' play will have one performance

"Bicentennial Plus One" will be presented on stage by Louisville's much-travelled Plymouth Inner-City Players, 8 p.m. September 10 in Prince Hall, 653 North West Street.

A dance featuring local talent standouts Chubby and the Melody Show Band will follow the stage production.

Tickets may be purchased from Indianapolis "8" Initials Bowling Club members, or by calling 783-9182, or 545-0302.

Inner-City Players have appeared in such cities as Detroit, Washington, D.C. and Atlanta. More next week.

Win Isley Bros. tickets

By LYNN FORD

How would you like to spend "An Evening With the Isley Brothers?" Sounds good, doesn't it?

Ten pairs of tickets to the Isley's August 21 concert in Market Square Arena with Teddy Pendergrass, Cameo, and Hamilton Bohannon, will be given away to as many lucky winners in the Recorder's "An Evening With the Isley Brothers" contest. To win, all you have to do is write:

Send your name, address, and phone number to: "An Evening With the Isley Brothers," c/o The Indianapolis Recorder, 2901 North Tacoma Avenue, Indianapolis, 46218. All entries must be postmarked on or later than midnight Tuesday August 16. Winners will be drawn at random the following day and announced next Thursday in this column. Entrants need not be present to win.

Winners will also receive one of a limited number of official Isley Brothers "Go For Your Guns" checkers, promotional consideration T-Neck Records.

So get those pens movin', and show Chris, Ernest, Kelly, Marvin, Ronald and Rudolph Indy knows how to "Shoot Its Best Shot!"

So they cancelled last Wednesday's K.C. AND THE SUNSHINE BAND concert. Tickets weren't selling too well anyway, and besides, T.K. Records (K.C. label) isn't all that cooperative with black press interested in promoting their group. They didn't even know how to reach their top-selling act's management agency. If the label wants to maintain K.C.'s present status, they'd better get on their horses with black press. After all, it was blacks who put K.C. where it is (or isn't) today.

It's a proven fact the record industry has more pull with today's youth than the church (maybe JOHN LENNON was right after all) and parents combined, and Philadelphia International Records is doing something constructive about it.

Now in its third month, the label's "Let's Clean Up the Ghetto" campaign is putting a T-shirted band of able bodied youth to work in sprucing up ghettos in 10 selected cities via a reported $50,000 allocation from PIR and its distributor, CBS Records. It's a refreshing change to once again see industry practitioners using their influence for the public good, instead of applauding drug abuse and premarital sex.

ISLEY BROTHERS
Jammin' on tour

Campaign is spurred by "Let's Clean Up the Ghetto", an album featuring PIR's top-selling names collaborating on the title cut and then breaking off on solos. Proceeds from sales of the album and single (title cut) will go towards implementation of community development projects in participating cities.

As for Lennon, he once said his BEATLES were more popular with youth than church.

GRAHAM CENTRAL STATION's got an obvious hit on their hands with the 1950s "doo-wop"-sounding "Stomped, Beat Up, and Whooped" single, from "Now Do-U-Wanta Dance". Superstar (in name only) JAMES BROWN claims he's got a hit with "A Mutha's Nature", newest LP for Ploydor featuring the single "Give Me Some Skin". Brown says this time around he's got a "brand new sound". Well, "Bodyheat", his last LP, made the same claim in the liners; and echoed previous material. Where's the new sound?

O'JAYS will bring a massive stage show, as part of the vaudeville renaissance, here August 28 in the Expo Center with Johnny "Guitar" Watson sharing the bill. Hype sheets say the group's "Travelling At the Speed of Thought" tour will outdo 1974's "Ship Ahoy" swing. It's only a prelude to some (wonder)ful concerts planned for coming weeks.

Rags-to-riches story of Mme. Walker on WRTV

The true story of the late Madame C. J. Walker, who became the world's first black woman of modern times to build a manufacturing business that grossed millions, will be documented in "Nine Leaves On A Sprig" to be presented on WRTV Friday, August 19, from 7-7:30 p.m.

Born of ex-slave parents in Delta, Louisiana, two years following the Civil War, Sarah Breedlove McWilliams Walker created a legend and a fortune. Through her discoveries and inventions in the field of beauty culture, she was the founder of an industry that provided businesses and employment for millions of men and women. Her experiments, products and beauty schools revolutionized hair and skin care for the blacks.

During her lifetime she donated money to many charitable causes; at her death she willed two-thirds of her estate to charity.

Sarah was uneducated in the formal sense. There were no schools for children of ex-slaves. In childhood she worked in the fields, much as if slavery had not ended. Orphaned at an early age, young Sarah Breedlove married at 14, in her own words "to get a home." Her husband, Jeff McWilliams left Vicksburg, Mississippi, where they were living, to find work and soon after was reported killed in a race riot in Greenwood, Mississippi.

Widowed at age 20, $1.50 in her pocket, she set out for St. Louis, Missouri where for four years, unassisted, she supported herself and her child by taking in washing and ironing. In her spare time she experimented with mixtures and preparations for the scalp and hair, using them on herself and her daughter until she developed a formula that was to make her famous. With her new preparations and with a metal comb she had contrived, Sarah peddled her goods from house to house, moving from city to city through the South and Midwest.

She moved to Denver, Colorado, and in 1905 met and Success theory working (Wonder)s for soul acts

Black crossover acts appear to be picking up these days on a theory which has sold more Stevie Wonder records the last four years than Richard Pryor has jokes.

Wonder's theory? Go sophisticated, or at least, meet 'em halfway.

And the style which began Wonder's winning streak (with "You Are The Sunshine Of My Life") appears to be winning new fandom for a multitude of black acts, who, this time four years ago, were relatively obscure; even in "their own" market.

Rufus featuring Chaka Khan's platinum "Ask Rufus" is the best, and possibly first example of the year's releases. Rufus, who ironically first hit with Wonder's "Tell Me Something Good", stormed into view with a heavy, thumping sound. Last summer's success, which would eventually clinch him a Grammy for "Record of the Year", has been basically mellow, laid-back, and-and highly sophisticated.

Benson's "new" sound is married Charles Walker, newspaperman. Walker helped her establish and expand her Mail Order Service to agents she had appointed in her travels. Her mail order business expanded to such proportions that in 1906 she set up a home office in Pittsburgh where she had located, and then she began traveling again.

In 1910 Madame Walker moved to Indianapolis, Indiana where she purchased a home, a factory and laboratory. Here she met Freeman B. Ransom, a brilliant young attorney who gave up his law practice to become general manager of the business which he organized and guided to amass wealth for her and her heirs.

Madame Walker died in 1919 at the peak of the development of the vast Walker empire and left behind a million dollar manufacturing house in Indianapolis, a four-story office building in New York, a half-million dollar 20-room mansion on the Hudson, beauty schools in ten cities and real estate holdings in Indianapolis and Michigan.

"Nine Leaves On A Sprig," a WRTV Public Affairs presentation, was narrated by Jay Johnson, written by Wilma Greene, produced and directed by Tom Alvarez, cinematography by Bill Shomo Jr., executive producer, Judy Waugh.

highly orchestrated; truly MOR and hard to call true jazz. Benson steps further into the crossover circle with new singles "Gonna Love You More" (written by Morris Albert of "Fellings" fame), and "The Greatest Love Of All". Although both appear to be catching on in R&B, neither could be classified truly "black".

Side Effect is a group who, has gone the sophisticated route, without giving up much of the black jazz sound.

A group who will shun classification, Side Effect's "Keep That Same Old Feeling" is an interesting cut as it includes five different styles, and has potential to reach as many markets. The three-man, one-woman group deals out MOR styled vocals, which might even make Ray Conniff give 'em a listen, to jazz organ licks, sophisticated instrumentation and a catchy disco beat.

Louis Johnson (Brothers Johnson) admitted the new "Right On Time" strayed away from the funk style they stormed us with last summer for crossover. "We did it" ("Look Out For #1) funky to identify us in the black market, and "Right On Time" was purposely laid back to get us started on white charts." So far, they're near success in that vein; "Strawberry Letter 23" is only two spots away from white "Top 40".

"I'll Be Good To You", first single from "Look Out" enjoyed a bit of white airplay, after it had already exhausted itself in R&B, but failed to pave the way for the funkier "Get The Funk Out Ma Face". Horns and flowing synthesizer work actually overtakes the funk in "Right On Time". Sophisticated horn licks, courtesy of mentor Quincy Jones, have been added to the brothers' funk material for the live show.

The change could also be socially-related, with artists attempting to, in some way, identify with the high self-concept of their audience.

Man today is in the midst of seeking higher ground without fear; even when it takes a dose of fantasy to do it. Thus, it wasn't much of a shock to hear unorthodox Parliament preaching "Fantasy Is Reality".

It's the same idea as the wave of Fifties rock, and Joan Baez' social protest music of the following decade; trying to identify with an audience. So, it appears it's more a crossover than heavy royalties.

And it took a "Wonder" to bring it all out.—L.F.

Last show on Kool Jazz tour to be Saturday

CINCINNATI

Last stop on 1977's "Kool Jazz Festival" tour will be Pontiac (Michigan) Silverdome, with one show set 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

Appearing will be acts from the tour's roster, which includes Gladys Knight and the Pips, Spinners, Wild Cherry, Al Green, Johnny Taylor, and Lou Rawls.

Pontiac performance caps a 13-stop, 24-show swing, which played two sets here last month. Attendance on the tour is said to have been around last tour's half-million patron mark.

Citizens comment is invited on the revised plans which have been developed to increase the efficiency and effectiveness of health care delivery in Central Indiana. The revised Health Systems Plan identifies specific and localized problems in health service and the revised Annual Implementation Plan describes ways in which selected high priority problems may be solved. Its chief goal is to assure equal access for all citizens to quality health care at reasonable cost.

Interested citizens may review the revised Health Systems Plan, Annual Implementation Plan, and Grant Application in advance at the central libraries of the following cities the week prior to the hearings:

Docket No. A77-359

In The Matter of the Adoption of Infant Male Brandon

- The Unknown Father Brandon is hereby notified that on the 6th day of July, 1977, Frank
B. Davis and Regina Davis filed in the office of the Clerk of the Probate Court of Marion County, in the State of Indiana,
a petition to adopt BRANDON,
a minor child of whom
The Unknown Father is a parent, which petition alleges that The Unknown Father has abandoned and deserted said child. On said date, the petitioner also filed his praecipe for summons along with supporting affidavits showing that diligent search has been made and that The Unknown Father cannot be found.

The Unknown Father is further notified that unless he responds within thirty (30) days after the last publication of notice of this action, said petition will be

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

Notice is hereby given that sealed bids for the furnishing and installation of cooling and ventilating equipment in the Learning Materials Center at Elementary School No. 34, 1410 E. Wade Street, will be received by The Board of School Commissioners of the City of Indianapolis, Indiana 120 East Walnut Street, Room 704C, until 11:00 a.m. on Wednesday, August 24, 1977, and then publicly opened and read aloud in Room 704E. Bids received after that hour will be returned unopened.

Bids shall be executed in accord with Indiana Form No. 96 with Non-collusion Affidavit and Questionnaire Form No. 96A, accompanied by a satisfactory bid bond, or deposit, payable to The Board of School Commissioners of the City of Indianapolis for not less than ten percent (10%) of the total bid price, and delivered in a sealed envelope showing the bidder's name and address.

Should a successful bidder withdraw his bid or fail to execute a satisfactory contract, The Board of School Commissioners may declare the bid deposit forfeited as liquidated damages.

Construction and installation shall be in full accord with drawings and specifications on file at the office of The Owner at 120 East Walnut Street, and at the Buildings and Grounds Division, 1129 East 16th Street.

The Owner reserves the right to accept, or reject, any bid; to waive any informalities or errors in bidding for a period of ninety (90) days after the bid opening.

Wage rates shall not be less than those in the specifications, and/or not less than those on file in the Owner's Office which can be seen upon request.

Contractor receiving the award shall furnish an approved one hundred percent (100%) Performance Bond which covers faithful performance of the Contract and the payment of all obligations arising thereunder. Said Bond shall remain in full force and effect for twelve (12) months from date of acceptance of the work.

The Contract to which the Board shall be a party will contain a provision prohibiting the other party to the contract, and his subcontractors, from engaging in any employment practice that constitutes a discrimination against a person because of the person's race, color, religion, national origin, or ancestry. The Contractor shall provide an affidavit with each billing assuring the School board that this provision has not been violated.

All bids shall have attached the Affirmative Action Clause, Rider No. 1, as provided in the specifications.

FRED DUNCAN

The Human Relations Institute of Indiana State University was created in 1973 by a Title IV grant under provision of the 1964 Civil Rights Act. Funded initially to serve only the Evansville-Vanderburgh School Corporation, the Institute now provides service to the Evansville, East Chicago, Gary and Hammond School Corporations.

The Institute is directed by Dr. Glenn Kinzie. Dr. Kinzie has served in this capacity since 1973. Fred Duncan, former Gary school city employer, is serving as assistant director of the program.

The activities and work scope of the 1977-78 Human Relations Institute provide participating school corporation. Evansville, Gary, Hammond, and East Chicago with teachers trained (re-trained) in curriculum, methods human relations, and conflict resolution. Each school city will have its own highly trained facilitator team, as well as trained team with each high school feeder district and an experienced staff member to serve their evolving needs.

The facilitators, one representing each of the high school feeder districts have been trained in leadership skills, group dynamics, problem solving, value strategies, and consensus seeking during the workshop (July 18-August 12, 1977). During the workshop, facilitators met with their feeder team to determine needs, develop strategies, and begin implementation for the academic-school year.

Major emphases have been placed in three areas: racism, sexism, and bilingual programs, with regard to textbook analysis, curriculum revision, workshop implementation (building-level), and on-going human relations projects. To meet these identified needs, the Institute will receive funds of $246,608.00 during the 1977-78 fiscal year.

Throughout the three-year tenure of the Institute, research has indicated that most communities, including the schools which are in integral part of the entire community, are not prepared to deal with the area of human relations as it refers to desegregation. Too often, school personnel have associated low socio-economic and minority students with "slow learners" and this stereotyping often prevents equal educational opportunity from being available to students that may be classified into one or both of these groups. Therefore, a major task confronting the educator is to demonstrate and promote a positive human relations attitude. In order for the desegregation plan, voluntary or involuntary, to be successful, the human relations program must then permeate the total school program.

Research by this Institute has indicated that minority isolation and feelings of negative self-concept can be reduced dramatically when teachers are properly trained.

It is contended that teacher retraining has a positive effect on alleviating racial tensions, poor student self-concept, and isolation. It is further contended that these factors are primary causes of student frustrations and failure. Oftentimes, it is these feelings of frustration and failure which cause students to rebel against the school organization and may result in their eventual withdrawal or expulsion.

Teachers must be able to diagnose and structure classroom activities to meet these needs, institute staff have devised a series of on-going throughout the entire academic year. Institute staff meet with participants on a regular basis to discuss and explore problems and projects/activities.

Services were held last week for Mrs. Letha Nunn, 73, 779 Judson, who died at St. Mary's Hospital on Sunday, July 31. Mrs. Nunn served as a nurse in the Household of Ruth Lodge and was a member of Nazarene Missionary Baptist Church and the Nurses Guild of the Church. She also served as president of the Missionary Society of the church.

Surviving are her husband, Albert; daughters, Mrs. Fronie Logan and Mrs. Mary Sergeant, both of Evansville and Mrs. Jesse Sergeant of St. Louis; sons, Albert Jr., of Xenia, Ohio, and William Potts Jr., of Evansville; 13 grandchildren and great-grand children, a niece and nephew.

Services were held at Nazarene Church, with burial in Oak Hill Cemetery. The wake was held at Earl L. Jones Mortuary, where the Household of Ruth Lodge No. 5063 held a memorial service.

More black entrants are sought for teen contest

LOS ANGELES—

Last month, the young woman who was crowned Miss Universe for the first time in the pageant's 26-year history called her victory "a step in the right direction" in changing people's attitudes toward blacks.

Another important step was taken a decade ago, when the Miss Teenage America contest had what is believed to be the country's first black candidate. Black Teenager Tracy Reed, now an actress, captured the title of Miss Teenage Los Angeles to become a National Candidate for Miss Teenage America in 1967. Two more years passed before the Miss America pageant had its first black candidate.

Although there have been many black candidates in the Miss Teenage America contest since 1967, there has inexplicably been a decrease in the number of black applications this year. Dismaided Teenage America coordinators strongly encourage black girls to enter the contest in order to continue the positive strides the program has made in the past years.

Furthermore, they want to stress that Miss Teenage America is not a beauty contest; Miss Teenage America 1978 will be recognized for her outstanding accomplishments and capabilities.

There is neither a swimsuit competition nor a crown for the winner. She will be selected for her abilities, knowledge and mode of expression. In place of a talent category is one which judges individual accomplishments, which can be anything from sign language to karate. Scholastic achievement and general awareness are evaluated on the basis of a written test, covering a wide range of subjects. The poise, appearance and expression competitions weigh sincerity, taste, attitude, personal achievement and school and community involvement.

Money carries no weight, either, since it takes just a few cents to enter. Applicants are required to send a photo along with a letter which includes a stamped, self-addressed envelope. No payment is accepted in any form from an applicant or candidate, and every cent of expense for all National Candidates and their chaperones is paid for by the Miss Teenage America contest. The entire telecast wardrobe, including shoes, is also provided for each National Candidate.

The new Miss Teenage America will receive the $15,000 Chalmers Meeker Jr. Scholarship Award, a minimum guarantee of $5,000 for personal expenditures, a complete 22-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia, a year-round PBJ wardrobe by Jerrill, a year's supply of Bonne Bell cosmetics and skin care products, and a $1,000 World Book Life Insurance Policy by Field Enterprises Educational Corporation. Another $19,000 in scholarships will be awarded to alternates, semi-finalists and special award winners.

Why is discipline of members lacking in many churches today? It's probably because church leaders and members fear offending people, even when they are doing wrong. Such fear of offending can hurt the work of the church.

LEONARD SHANNON

IN BENEFIT: Mary Johnson (left) and Ann Gregory of Gary were both among the top golfers recently at the Indiana State Women's Golf Tournament at Evansville. Both will participate in the First Annual Zebedee Christian Golf Classic, sponsored by the Urban League of Madison County Aug. 27 at Yule Golf Club, Alexandria. The classic is a fund-raising event with the proceeds to go toward a youth development program aimed at motivating poor and minority students for scholastic excellence. Celebrities, games and prizes will be featured for participants who send a $20.00 registration fee, along with name, address, phone number and handicap to the Urban League office, 329 W. 12th, Anderson, Ind.

There's a fellow in our neighborhood who is convinced the soul can leave the body and travel to the past, present and future. He says he has had experiences like that himself.

"The body is just a tool for the learning experience of the soul," says Broadnax, who was interviewed by the Anderson Daily Bulletin recently.

The 50-year-old Broadnax is employed in the maintenance department at Delco-Remy and works the third shift, "so I have during the day to pursue my interests."

The pursuit of these interests usually takes place in Broadnax's studio downtown. Besides his heavy involvement with psychic phenomena, Broadnax also finds time for painting and photography.

WALTER MARSHALL

Funeral services for Walter Marshall, 72, 331 Bright, were held Wednesday, Aug. 10 in Stuart Mortuary, with burial in New Crown Cemetery. He died Monday, Aug. 8, in a local nursing home. He was a native of Terry, Miss., and had lived here 30 years. He was a member of All Faiths Interdenomination Church. He retired in 1963 and was employed 25 years by Jack Castle Junk Yard.

other persons who had similar experiences, some were at the point of death, like Broadnax, when their soul left their body. Others were under hypnosis or under the influence of drugs when they had their experience. In most cases, once the person had the first experience, it happened again, and sometimes the individual learned how to separate his consciousness from his body at will.

Broadnax's curiosity about unexplainable incidents soon brought him into contact with experiments of the mind. He became a proficient hypnotist during the years he attended Ball State Teachers College, and he also learned the arts of palmistry and handwriting analysis.

Funeral director support main objective of confab

CHICAGO—

A program to strengthen community ties and build grassroots support for the black funeral director will be proposed to the National Funeral Directors & Morticians Association's convention here.

Called the "Funeral Director-to-People" program, the project is designed to "build a bridge" between the funeral director and the people he serves through continuing dialogue.

The plan, proposed by Robert H. Miller, the organization's executive director, will be presented to the more than 3,000 delegates attending the NFD&MA's 40th Annual Convention, August 14-19 at Mark Plaza Hotel.

The plan would be drawn up by a team of experts within and out of the association, most of them holders of doctorate degrees, and would consist of "Town Hall" type meetings and seminars between funeral directors and the public. Where practical, such meetings would also be arranged for radio and television. Special problems confronting both groups would be discussed as well as public support for the funeral service profession against unjust attacks, such as biased criticisms in the press in recent months.

Miller called the program "a must," in the wake of recent efforts by the Federal Trade Commission to tightly regulate the funeral service. (The FTC has proposed a Trade Regulation Rule that, if adopted, would require funeral directors and funeral homes to advertise funeral prices and itemize the cost of services.) Miller said such itemization would increase costs and thereby hurt Black funeral patrons, many of whom now enjoy a number of services such as limousine service, free. However, he said the public is not aware of such disadvantages until they are pointed out specifically. This, he said, is typical of the type of hidden dangers that would be pointed out in our "People-to-People" meetings. "This is what the program is all about."

In commenting on the program in general, Miller said: "In the past, we (funeral directors) have been talking among ourselves about the things we plan to do. Now we need to talk WITH the people about the things we can do together. It is something that is long overdue."

Community projects which the NFD&MA would sponsor under the "People-to-People" program, would include a drive to raise Brown African Methodist Episcopal Church in Selma, Ala., to the status of a national landmark. The late, great Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., led the civil right march from the church in the 1950s. However, the church, which has great historical value for Blacks, has been allowed to fall into decline in recent years.

New day begun

Some of my colleagues and the trade press have called it "a going away present for me." "It" being my proposal to the Federal Communications Commission that in order for Blacks and other minorities to have a decent shot at competing in the process of TV and radio license sales, sellers of broadcast properties should give public notice of at least 45 days in advance of proposed sales.

That way Blacks and minorities would be able to bid for the properties along with those belonging on the inside. The so-called "The Good Ol' Boy" network. However, I would like to think that "it" was and is ultimately a gift to the people, especially to the Blacks and other minorities who have been historically shut out of opportunities to bid in sales of TV and radio properties, simply because they have not been privy to the vital information of an upcoming sale.

Present FCC rules only decree that notice of sale must be publicly made 30 days before final consummation of the sale which has already been made. The rules, however, do not permit a competing interest to enter the arrangement. The 30-day notice is simply to allow anyone who may have some reservations about the proposed sale, or the parties involved, to give voice to their objections.

The Commission would then decide if the objections were of sufficient merit to hold a hearing. But unless the objections are of a major such petitions are seldom granted a hearing. My proposal, which grew out of the concerns voiced at the two-day Minority Ownership Conference in April sponsored by the FCC, was put forth as Notice of Proposed Rulemaking.

I thought the impediment in respect to Blacks and other minorities was of such importance in this instance. The Commission should move promptly to secure dialogue from interested parties with an eye to making a rule that would lighten the burden of Blacks and minorities seeking to compete in the sales of broadcast properties. However, with the exception of two other Commissioners, there was not enough enthusiasm for this proposal.

So on my last day as a Commissioner, July 27, it was amended in Commission meeting to make it a Notice of Inquiry into the subject. I am pragmatic, so I believe that even though I would rather have had rulemaking, an inquiry into the subject will serve the same purpose. Ultimately, I believe such a rule-making will be effected. My only regret is that I will not be at the Commission to see it come to fruition.

In the transfer of radio and TV licenses, just as in all other fields of corporate and industry endeavor, it may not be so much what but who you know. Blacks and other minorities are not members of the posh private clubs, nor do they move in the upper strata social, business and political circles of the decision-making white power structure.

And since we do not, it is not hard to understand why we Blacks own less than one percent of the nation's broadcast properties. Even when we do move in these circles, however, prevailing clandestine suspicions and xenophobic bordering on racist, attitudes of some of the majority white corporate officials tend to foreclose us from insider knowledge that would put us on track at the competitive starting blocks.

John H. Johnson, publisher of Jet and Ebony magazines, owner of radio station WJPC, Chicago, who also sits on many of America's top corporation boards of directors, reveals that even possession of keys to corporate executive washrooms does not automatically or completely open those secret and intimate passageways to specialized information so essential to meaningful decision making process in business. Other Black corporate executives have voiced the same concerns.

There are those who say that any amending of the rules to notify the public of upcoming sales would pose enforcement problems for the Commission; that it would pave the way to bidding wars that would price a station out of financial sight. I say rubbish to both reservations while at the same time realizing that there will be additional enforcement problems, that competition for the properties will be stiffer.

But the Commission can easily handle the former while the latter will test our belief in free enterprise. I believe the market place given a chance, is the most democratic of arbiters.

Nevertheless, the time has come to open this process for access of all our people, not just the privileged, "Ol' Boy Club" members.

It is in the public interest for the Commission to do so.

To Be Equal
Blacks, poor look for signalsBY
VERNON E. JORDAN JR.
Executive Director
National Urban League

The speech I made to the National Urban League's Annual Conference analyzing the Administration's domestic policies and expressing black disappointment with the record to date was based on my talks and travels all over the country, and much of what I said has been said by others as well.

The President appeared before the same Annual Conference the next morning and gave an effective defense of his Administration, as did a number of Cabinet officers and other key figures in Washington.

That kind of public dialogue is an important phenomenon. It put some neglected issues back into the field of public discussion, where they belong. And it informed the Administration that a significant part of its constituency is unhappy with its performance to date.

When the dust had cleared and all sides made their case, the situation facing black people was unchanged and the analysis I made of the Administration's first six months was unaltered.

The basic outline of that analysis is this: The Carter Administration was elected largely through capturing solid black votes. Those votes were given on the assumption that campaign promises of full employment and urban revitalization would be fulfilled. To date, despite some significant steps in HUD's block grant program, in youth employment, and other areas, black expectations have not been fulfilled.

A basic reason for this may be that priorities are askew. Instead of full employment, balancing the budget by 1981 has become the top priority. Energy, controlling inflation, and government reorganization have all been given greater urgency than a national urban policy, national health insurance and other basic human needs programs.

A case may be made for the importance of the items the administration has chosen to make its priorities, but to the degree that emphasis on balanced budgets restricts its ability to inaugurate needed social reforms, the hopes of poor people will be frustrated. I understand the need for balanced budgets, but human needs must have priority.

And if the price of balanced budgets is continued joblessness, poverty and urban deterioration, then we're only laying the groundwork for possibly insoluble social problems in the 1980s.

The positive changes that took place in the 1960s were arrested for much of this decade. To some degree those gains have helped foster expect-tations on the part of minorities and the poor that must now be satisfied.

When Nixon and Ford occupied the White House many people realized that little could be expected in the way of social reforms, but that situation changed in November. A new President was elected by a coalition of labor, blacks, minorities, poor people, and others who renewed their faith in the political system in backing a candidate who promised jobs and reform.

The President has proved adept at signal-sending. By emphasizing human rights, he's sent signals to the world's dictators to shape up. By selling the Presidential yacht and other symbolic moves, he's signalled his countrymen that the Imperial Presidency is at an end.

Now, he should send some signals to the poor people who placed so much faith in him and in his Administration. He could make symbolic visits to urban ghettos, change the misguided welfare reform plan, and express in legislative terms his commitment to expanded job creation beyond the limited measures already taken.

A new Administration can't do everything in only six months, but it can set a new tone and it can frame strategies it will follow in the next four years. That's the point of the pressure black people are now exerting on Washington—to return the Administration to what we feel are its true instincts of helping ease the lot of the poor.

Otto McClarrinPool Safety:
kidproofing pools

POOL SAFETY: KIDPROOFING POOLS FOR SAFE SWIMMING: The news reports start at the beginning of every summer. There's a horrifying sameness about them throughout the season: "Mother of Boy 3, Spots Body in Pool from Kitchen Window," or "Guest Finds 2 Toddlers Face Down in Motel Pool; Parents Sleeping," or "Child Drowns When Life Preserver Slips," or "Mother Leaves Pool Minutes, Finds Tot Drowned on Return."

Nearly half of all pool drownings are in private pools and another fifth in other residential pools-hotels, motels, apartments. The victims? Children under four are in the overwhelming majority.

If you have a pool, if your youngsters swim in a neighbor's pool, or if you stay in motel with a pool, make sure there is constant adult supervision when the pool is in use and that adequate barricades around the pool prevent its unsupervised use.

These two reasons-lack of supervision and inadequate barriers-are major factors in pool drownings, according to various health experts.

Community standards, laws and inspection affecting pool safety have not kept pace with the rapid growth of residential pools in recent years. Health departments tend to concern themselves only with water purity. Does your community have enforced laws about pool safety?

"KIDPROOFING" A POOL: Here are the ways government public health authorities recommend for "Kidproofing" a pool: (1) FENCING, at least six feet high, should be an integral part of pool construction, from the time of excavation. The secret of a pool fence is to outwit agile youngsters by making it difficult to climb, over or under. Chin link fencing should angle outward at the top. Ornamental fencing should be made of vertical boards with pointed tops. Framing should be on the inside to eliminate handholds and footholds. Digging under can be thwarted by continuous footings or imbedding fence six inches into the ground. Trim overhanging tree limbs that could give access.

(2) House should not open directly onto pool area, but the pool should be visible from the house.

(3) Gate should be kept locked at all times when adult supervision is not present.

(4) The pool bottom should slope gradually, with a float line to separate the shallow and deep ends. Ladders or recessed step holes should be at each end.

Mobil Oil
Menace
to minorities

While Exxon Corp is ahead of Mobil Corp as far as oil companies go, both seem to subscribe to the same Murphy Law. Namely, you can fool some of the people all of the time and all of the people some of the time and that's sufficient. Like Exxon, Mobil Oil makes more money than the law allows.

Revenues from sales and services for 1976, advanced 26 percent in that same year. In the first three months of this year, sales and services advanced some 34 percent. U.S. petroleum profits were up 16.7 percent and foreign petroleum profits jumped 44 percent.

Even looking at 1.2 billion dollars in its cash account, Mobil dropped its support of a Columbia University journalism fellowship program. This is because it did not like the views of its new director. Mobil had been giving $50,000 a year to the school to support Columbia's Walter Baggett fellowship program in economics and business journalism.

You can be sure when the program is cut back, blacks and other minority participants will be put in jeopardy.

Chris Welles, author of a book about shale oil called "The Elusive Bonanza," which accuses the oil industry of neglecting development of America's oil shale reserves, is the new director. People concerned with the rising cost of oil prices can expect the same cold shoulder treatment as Mr. Welles.

Elie Abel, dean of Columbia's graduate school of journalism, stated that Mobil Corp Vice President Herbert Schmetz "informed me that he could not recommend to the corporation further support of the program because of a book Mr. Welles wrote about shale oil."

Mobil's spokesman told reporters that "while Mr. Welles' past writings have not been fair to the oil industry, that is not the main reason we decided not to support the program."

Blacks are still wondering when Mobil Oil is going to start supporting some of their minority programs. The company sues 148,000 barrels of oil a day out of Nigeria, but neglects to aid Blacks to live better in America. Meanwhile, through its 100 percent owned Marcor, Inc. subsidiary, Mobil operates Montgomery Wards.

This nationwide chain of retail stores is ripe for a Black boycott. Mobil Oil stations may not be located in your state but you can strike back by boycotting Montgomery Wards retail stores.

Montgomery Wards is a product of its parents since its acquisition on July 1, 1976. The retail stores, catalogue stores and agencies with annual sales of over $4 billion could feel the effects of a Black boycott faster than its father Mobil Oil.

Minorities must make their influence felt either through an oil divestiture bill from Black Congresspersons or by boycotting big oil companies like Exxon and Mobil as well as their profit tentacles like Montgomery Wards.

The best is yet to come

Dear Andrew,

As you know, Senator Brooke is coming to speak for the annual CAAP Fellowship Dinner August 18th. I know he was here just last week for the Black Republicans, but CAAP felt this outstanding personality could never be overexposed. His message this time will have wider appeal in that it will be dealing with the solutions that he sees on the national scene that will be pertinent to those problems of the economically deprived.

In a recent column I suggested that the candidate should be considered more and more rather than the party label. I think that Senator Brooke is a prime example of this philosophy. Senator Brooke's record is of concern for the plight of the economically deprived is well known.

His voting record on legislation that would affect the lives of the economically deprived is a testament of his concern. So it would be the individual that I would be voting for not because he is a representative of this or that party. Overall party platforms and the implementation by the elected legislators is a dream that has never been fulfilled. All Afro-Americans have to do is look at past legislations and the promises of parties to become disenfranchised.

Andrew, I know you are aware that there is still no Federal anti-lynching law on the books. Some people would say there is no need for such laws because there haven't been any lynchings lately. Well, Andrew, I'm not so sure about that. It all depends on how you define lynching. I get awfully suspicious of all those accidental deaths caused by policemen against Afro-Americans. I'm still waiting to hear of an Afro-American "accidentally" shooting a policeman. Those anti-lynching laws were steadily being defeated by those southern Democrats. They didn't pay any attention to party pledges. So more and more we should be looking at the candidate. And as we look at the candidate let us judge him or her-let us hold them accountable for their action. Let us talk about the individual.

And as we listen to Senator Brooke next week on August 18th let us hear what he is saying-let us act on those suggestions that will benefit the lives of the economically deprived-but most of all let us pay respect to the only Afro-American Senator in this century. Just in case you haven't heard it is at 6:30 at the Convention Center-$15.00 a ticket for the CAAP Fellowship Dinner. Call 639-9421 for ticket information.

See you there,
BOBCliff Ransom takes issue with Indy-Scarborough Peace Games

To the Editor:

Fun and frolic, or politics and prestige? It seems to me that the true purpose of the Indy-Scarborough Peace Games has somehow gone astray. It use to be that kids from both cities enjoyed a mutual, physical endeavor, and in the process, grew to respect one another, not just for the promotion of mutual understanding, but for personal gain and prestige.

Bias committees have been set up to be ruled by a chosen few. The black community has not been asked to enter into the Peace Game setup. We even had our distinguished mayor as a participant this year, when someone of much lesser stature could have participated and never been exposed to travel and may have gotten more out of the trip than he.

Some of the scheduled game times were at an awkward time and were located in out-of-the-way sites, which denies the inner-city child access; it would seem to me that both cities should examine their priorities and determine if the Games should involve more of the underprivileged, both in the volunteer coaches and participants, to give them exposure to travel and meet new people.

If we can take revenue sharing money and build an arena, and if we can have a fund raising drive to save a professional basketball team, which put itself in financial difficulties, then surely to God we can arrange and subsidize some form of transportation to some of the sites so that all kids, regardless of economic, educational, or whatever background could be given the fair chance to compete.

The public should also be informed as to who is on the board of directors of the Peace Games; more of the common people should be on the board. The board seems to be made up like most of the boards in the power structure-the affluent.

A long hard look should also be taken at the officiating at all levels of competition. It was quite evident in some instances where the officials' loyalties were. We are trying to teach kids fair play, and yet over and over in games, they see flagrant displays of favoritism by adults who are in charge, and yet we expect the youngsters to display good sportsmanship when all around them they see obvious unfairness going on in the team selection process, the all-star coaching selection process, and the deliberate attempt to keep minorities in the minority in the overall team roster selection.

This article may not serve to make them change the total Peace Games picture, but it is the fervent hope that those of us in the black community who are sports minded, or even just fair-play minded, will get up off our whatchamacallits and attempt to be a focal and verbal part of a situation that belongs to the entire city.

Dear Editor:

I'm writing you this letter concerning a situation where I am seeking help from your publication. I'm a former resident of Indianapolis, and have been a long time reader of the Recorder. I'm presently incarcerated at (Huntingdon, State Correctional Institution); during my incarceration I have been trying to contact a (MS. CANDRA SULLIVAN), who's also a resident of Indianapolis. But because of my incarceration it has been highly impossible to contact her; all my personal things were destroyed (addresses & phone numbers), which makes it very hard to contact Ms. Sullivan on my own.

So I am asking you if you could put a small article in your publication, stating that I'm trying to contact her, and to please contact me at this address: Mr. Vernon Scott F8771, Drawer R, Huntingdon, Pennsylvania 16652. It's very important that we contact each other, so I can be released. I am willing to pay for the ad in your paper because it's very important that I get in touch with her and my children. So I'm thanking you in advance for your time-also your attention. Thank you.

JOE GILLIAM READY: Joe Gilliam, who says faith helped him overcome his drug problem, is expected to make his first professional football appearance in more than 18 months Saturday when the New Orleans Saints take on the Chicago Bears at Soldier's Field in the Windy City. Gilliam is completely recovered from a slight strain in an achilles tendon and ready to play football. "Jefferson Street" Joe is really looking forward to making the team and getting some playing time. He could give starter Archie Manning a run for the quarterback spot. The former Pittsburgh Steeler looks good and his arm is just out of sight, as well as his legs, not to mention his head.

Q. Suppose my life insurance policy is lost or my survivors cannot find it—what then?

A. Your policy represents a valuable asset. If you lose it, by all means promptly notify your insurance agent. He can tell you the steps necessary to get a replacement policy. If your survivors cannot locate the document, your agent will advise them how to proceed to collect payment.

Q. Can my insurance policies ever be attached by my creditors?

A. Sometimes yes, but most states have passed legislation which, in certain circumstances, exempts in whole or in part life insurance policies payable to named beneficiaries from claims of the insured's creditors.

Q. What does "preferred ordinary life" mean as the name for a policy—and why does it have a lower premium?

A. Many life insurance companies have for many years offered life insurance at reduced cost to persons who are considerably above average as to health, personal history, occupation and general build. Their actuarial studies showed that such persons have a measurably lower death rate—hence a lower premium could cover the policy. Otherwise, the policy is the same as all other straight life or whole life policies.

Pacers to open 2nd NBA swing against Lakers

Indiana Pacers, almost by the skin of their teeth, will open a second National Basketball Association campaign Wednesday, October 19 in Market Square Arena against Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and the Los Angeles Lakers.

Pacers were assured a second try on the brown ball circuit following a last-minute telethon to climax a two-week campaign to sell 8,000 season tickets, which, in turn, would guarantee operating funds from investors. The club got their wish—plus a few to spare—as they ended the 18-hour telethon with a total of 8,028 season commitments sold via cash, checks, and pledges.

Indiana Pacers' home scheduled announced

The Indiana Pacers will open their 82 game 1977-78 season at home on October 19 against Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and the Los Angeles Lakers. Last season the Lakers compiled the best record in the entire NBA with 53 wins and only 29 losses and have added former Golden State Warriors star, Jamaal Wilkes, and three first round draft choices to their roster since then. This year's schedule will again feature balance with every NBA team, except the Boston Celtics, paying two visits to Market Square Arena. The Celtics will be here only once. On the road, the Pacers will play in every league city twice except Cleveland, where the club will make only one trip to Richfield Coliseum.

Indiana will hope to get off to a good start as 4 of the 5 games in October are in MSA. The club will play 5 at home and 10 away in November, 7 at home and 4 away in December, 8 at MSA and 10 on the road in January, 7 and 7 in February, 8 and 7 in March, and close with 2 at home and 2 on the road in April.

The home schedule features 5 Sunday games, 1 Monday (on Martin Luther King Day), 7 Tuesday, 11 Wednesday, 1 Thursday, 12 Friday, and 4 on Saturday.

The Pacers will be home in 10 days homestand in December. The longest road trip will be a 6 game-12 day affair in November.

Games will tip-off at 8:05 p.m. on weekdays and either 1:45 p.m. or 7:05 p.m. on Sundays. The holiday game on Monday, January 16, will begin at 7:05 p.m.

The complete home schedule is as follows:

Wednesday	October 19, 1977	Los Angeles Lakers
Saturday	October 22, 1977	Kansas City Kings
Tuesday	October 25, 1977	Denver Nuggets
Friday	October 28, 1977	Washington Bullets

DICK DAVIS of the Milwaukee Brewers has been returned to the club's minor league team in Spokane, Washington, after playing in 12 games in which he hit only .231.

GEORGE FOSTER, who is a former Indianapolis Indian, is just having a super year with 39 home runs, 109 runs batted in, a .315 batting average, 85 runs scored and making the big plays in the outfield.

ROD CAREW, the Minnesota first baseman, has his eyes on his 6th American League batting title as he is leading the majors with a super .386 mark. JIM PRICE, who is in his third year with the Boston Red Sox, is leading the American League in home runs with 28.

LARRY HISLE, the American League leader in runs batted in, has hopes of driving in over 125 runs this year. He leads at present with 90.

WILSON WASHINGTON, who is a 6.9 second round draft choice from Old Dominion College, has signed a multi-year contract with the Philadelphia 76ers.

HERMAN FRANKS has had his contract as manager of the Chicago Cubs extended through the 1978 season.

RICKY WILLIAMS, who is the son of Montreal Expos manager Dick Williams, has signed a contract as a free agent. The 20-year-old Williams is a right-handed pitcher.

LEE CORSO, head football coach at Indiana University, suggests that the Big 10 adopt a schedule that includes six conference games and five non-conference tilts.

BRUCE SUTTER, the Chicago Cubs bullpen ace, has been placed on the 21-day disabled list and may miss the next 18 games. He had appeared in 45 games until his injury.

Good eating habits established in youth usually mean good nutrition in later years. However, many people falsely believe they need no longer be concerned about good nutrition once they are mature or middle-aged. Nothing could be further from the truth. The body is not a static organism but has a constant need for many nutrients for important life functions as well as to maintain strong bones and repair all body tissues.

Something few of us seem to realize is that we continue to need calcium throughout our lives in order to avoid weak and brittle bones as we grow older. One of the reasons calcium is deficient in the diet of many older persons may be their intolerance to lactose, a sugar found in milk. Lactose intolerance, due to a lack of the enzyme that "digests" lactose, seems to increase with age. Sometimes fermented milk products, such as yogurt, may be more easily tolerated -- or milk in the form of cooked puddings or creamed soups. If no form of milk is tolerated, you may need to ask your physician about a calcium supplement.

City selected as Labor Recruitment Program site

At the request of the Indianapolis Fire Fighters Association, Local No. 416, Indianapolis has been selected by National Project Administrator, Roscoe J. Hamby as a Labor Recruitment Program city under its current contract with the Employment and Training Administration of the U.S. Department of Labor.

With a grant of $457,000 the I.A.F.F. (International Association of Fire Fighters) will implement its outreach program of pre-employment education to prepare minorities for fire fighters civil service examinations in 10 cities.

Since its inception five years ago, the Labor Recruitment Program has placed over 4,400 minorities on civil service eligibility lists across the country. Of this number, over 1,240 minorities have been employed as fire fighters.

The Labor Recruitment Program is a mobile operation which prepares minority groups to pass the written, oral and physical agility components of civil service examinations throughout the country.

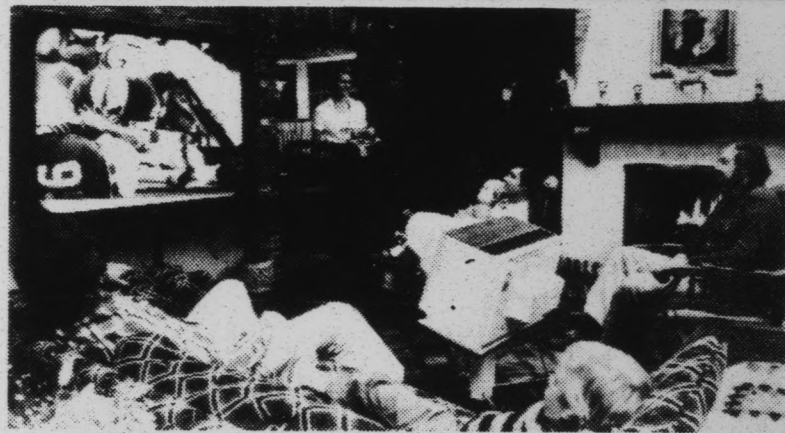

Commenting on the selection of Labor Recruitment Program, Hamby said the lowering of educational and physical standards for fire fighter recruits is not the way to raise the low minority representation in the fire service.

"In order to ensure that the fire service maintains its high standard of performance we have to make sure that it is manned with skilled and dedicated fire fighters."

"Of the around 861 persons presently in the Indianapolis Fire Department only about 8.7 percent are minorities. We hope to change this number drastically. We are not so naive as to believe that our work alone can bring about this change. We know that this challenge requires the untied efforts of the city, the union, and the Labor Recruitment Program. Together we can utilize our resources to narrow the economic gap between the rich and the poor and, by so doing, help eradicate poverty."

ICU offers college courses at Mt. Zion, St. Patrick's Center

One year ago Dr. Gene E. Sease spoke at Mt. Zion Baptist Church and was impressed with the youth of the church and the minister, the Reverend R.T. Andrews, Sr.

After the sermon, Dr. Sease and the Reverend Andrews talked about how Indiana Central University and Mt. Zion could work together and develop a program for the youth around the 3500 Graceland Avenue area. Also involved in the early discussions were several businesses and civic leaders who were in favor of the idea.

As a result of these meetings, the "Give Yourself Credit" program began last fall. The University offered several courses to students, who were high school graduates and were interested in taking college work but had not done so because of a lack of financial resources or encouragement.

After a highly successful first year, Indiana Central has expanded the "Give Yourself Credit" program to the St. Patrick's Center, 931 Woodlawn Avenue.

Tuition is $35 per credit hour and if a student needs financial aid, Indiana Central will assist by paying up to $20 per credit hour.

In addition to receiving University credit, class instructors will provide individual academic tutoring and employment counseling.

Registration for the classes at Mt. Zion will be August 22-23 from 5:30-7 p.m. at the church; while registration for the classes at the St. Patrick's Center will be August 29-30 from 5:30-7 p.m. at the center.

The class schedule is as follows:

At Mt. Zion Baptist Church, 3500 Graceland Avenue--

General Psychology II (3 hours), Monday, 6-8:45 p.m.

Principles of Macro Economics (3 hours), Thursday, 6-8:45 p.m.

Introduction to Religion (2 hours), Tuesday, 6-7:50 p.m.

English Composition (3 hours), Wednesday, 5:30-7:20 p.m.

Speech Communication (2 hours), Wednesday, 7:35-9:25 p.m.

At St. Patrick's Center, 931 Woodlawn Avenue--

General Psychology I (3 hours), Thursday, 6-8:45 p.m.

English Composition (1 hour), Tuesday, 6-7:50 p.m.

For more information call Indiana Central University, 788-3219, and ask about the "Give Yourself Credit" program.

Pair to Indiana-

School districts in 40 states get tribal grants

WASHINGTON--

More than 1,000 public school districts in 40 States, two in Indiana have received grants totaling nearly $32.2 million to meet the special needs of some 300,000 American Indian and Alaska Native children during the coming school year, according to HEW's Office of Education.

Schools use the grants to develop curriculums on tribal culture and heritage, provide teacher aides and home-school coordinators from the same tribes as the children served, hire tutors for pupils needing remedial instruction, sponsor field trips, and offer other enriching activities. Indiana's grants total $6,609.14.

For example, Lawton, Okla., has an intertribal program that serves the 28 different tribes represented in its schools. Saint Mary's school district in Alaska teaches Eskimo survival skills. Indian students in Red Lake, Minn., have compiled and published an anthology of their poems. Pacific Northwest districts have developed teaching materials on the history and laws of Indian fishing rights.

Grants are awarded yearly under Part A of the Indian Education Act of 1972 (Public Law 92-318). They are determined by a formula based on the number of Indian or Alaska Native children enrolled in a district's elementary and secondary schools.

By law, each program must have a parent committee with major responsibility for program development, use, and evaluation.

Eleven States receive more than $1 million for the new school year. Oklahoma leads with $5 million going to 194 districts. California is second with over $4 million to 156 districts. Alaska is third with just over $2.5 million to 27 districts.

Grants under Parts B and C of the Indian Education Act will be awarded by September 30, the end of the 1977 fiscal year.

Part B grants are made on a competitive basis to tribes and other native organizations, as well as schools, to design innovative programs and demonstration projects for Indian children. Part C grants, also awarded competitively, fund adult education programs.

Symposium to feature civil rights chairman

The Indianapolis Public Schools will present a symposium on multicultural education which will feature Arthur S. Flemming, chairman of the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights. The symposium will be held Thursday, September 1, at the Convention Center, beginning at 8 a.m.

Flemming, Secretary of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare from 1958 through 1961, will be joined by another feature speaker, Dr. Thurman Evans, who is the national health director of Operation PUSH (People United to Save Humanity). They will address IPS employees and interested community members on the positive elements of integrated schools.

In addition to the remarks of the two feature speakers, community groups are being invited to participate in workshop sessions and present their ideas on cultural heritage and concerns. They also will suggest activities which school personnel can use to increase student appreciation for different ethnic and racial groups.

The symposium is sponsored by the Title VII program and IPS which provides curricular and human relations components in schools involved in desegregation. The Title VII program director, Joseph McGeehan, announced that the community is invited to attend the symposium free of charge.

Flemming, in addition to his posts on the Civil Rights Commission and with HEW, has been the president of Ohio Wesleyan University, on the editorial staff of U.S. Daily (now U.S. News and World Report), editor of Uncle Sam's Diary (a weekly current events paper for high school students) and the director of the School of Public Affairs of American University.

As national health director for Operation PUSH, Evans is responsible for organizing, developing and promoting a national advocacy for the improvement of the health of blacks and poor persons in general. Prior to this position, he was the executive director of the Health Manpower Development Corporation, and the chief of program development in

JOHN H. CLAY

Final rites for John H. Clay, 77, 3361 Arthington Blvd., were held Wednesday, August 10, in Summers Northeast Funeral Home, with burial in floral Park Cemetery. He died Sunday, August 7, in Methodist Hospital.

A native of Halls, Tenn., he had lived here 59 years. He retired in 1965 and was a porter 43 years for L.S. Ayres & Co. He retired in 1972 and was a janitor seven years for D.A. Lubricant Co. He was a member of University Methodist Church, Southern Cross Masonic Lodge, Constantine Consistory No. 26, Persian Temple No. 46, and the Shrine Band.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Clay; two sons, James and John H. Clay, Jr.; and two foster daughters, Mrs. Mary F. Brown and Mrs. Joyce Wilkens, city.

VIRGINIA SHOBE

Funeral services for Mrs. Virginia Pruitt Shobe, 89, 1635 Nelson, were to be held Friday August 8, in her home. She was born in Adair County, Ky., and had lived here 78 years. She was a member of Mt. Pilgrim Baptist Church and its senior choir, and a charter member of the Jolly 16 Birthday Club.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Armetta F. Rogers, city.

COMMENTS

National Black United Fund, Inc.

Blacks are best people

The composite black community, the grand total of all the blacks in this nation, is honest, honorable, hard working, and fair minded. This is true by comparison to any and all other groups that make up this melting pot nation. If there is a pure Christian in America, that Christian is to be found in black America. We do not as a group cheat on our taxes, exploit our fellow man or crush the humanity of people by manipulating power. We are sensitive, sharing people who have turned the other cheek despite the most horrifying atrocities ever vent by man upon man.

Despite this we are characterized as a group as being lazy, shiftless, dumb and criminal.

Though blacks and whites in this country certainly know that Richard Speck, the Boston Strangler, Charles Manson and so many other famous criminals are not black, though most of the wanted posters in banks and post offices are white, such people still harbor unjustified definitions of black people.

A friend of mine recently overheard a friendly argument between two attractive black ladies who were attending a party at the home of a big

Hollywood star. A bi-racial group listened with interest. One girl lived in the black community. The other lived in the San Fernando Valley. The lady from the San Fernando Valley closed the argument by stating that "at least she didn't have to lock her door in a white community. Two days later her apartment was wiped clean. Those finally caught were three white youths who live a block away."

The girl from south central Los Angeles had made one strong point that I agree with and wonder why so few blacks recognize the point. That point is that whites are much safer in a black neighborhood than blacks are in a white neighborhood.

News media and others take a main stem approach to the black community. They take the sensational aspects of black life and perpetuate them as a total representation of our group. While their cameras and their writers concentrate on the main stem, there is a full black community of living, loving people that live on peaceful side streets with lovely well kept lawns, they go to work everyday, go to church on Sunday and live peaceful, productive lives.

Such stories and people are not of interest to America's mass image machines. The image machines are only interested in a few goody goody black folk; a few politicians, entertainers and athletes who they develop and project as control tactics on the black community.

Hardworking people who work, pay their bills, aren't on welfare, don't shoot or kill, don't propagandize against the best interest of black people and the black world are indeed invisible people and they are made so by the mass media. The media have given rise to the conceptualization of the silent majority. They ignore the invisible majority. In deed the amss of blacks in this country are an invisible majority that is being ignored.

Thus we see black politicians crying about crime but ignoring the criminal neglect of the decent, the hardworking and the dedicated in the black community. Those who are doing the right things and still getting kicked in the rump are forgotten people.

We have seen some blacks of position and prominence show more concern for the human rights struggles of a small minority in Russia than for the rights of blacks right here in America. One black Mayor offered to travel all the way to Russia to deliver a Nobel Peace Prize but refuses to walk down to his own black community for anything but safe, contrived appearances.

We are not all the negative things that caricature us in this country but we have been taught to hate ourselves.

Brother of Indy attorney dies in Detroit

Funeral services for James Hall, Detroit, Mich., were held Friday, Aug. 5, in Detroit. He and his wife, Velma, had lived in Detroit many years. They also maintained a home in Canada's resort area and were prominent members of that community also.

Mr. Hall was the older brother of one of Indianapolis' more prominent attorneys, I. Everett Hall. Other survivors besides his wife and brother include two sisters, Mrs. Robert Maxberry and Mrs. Luther Cox.

People who hate themselves are easily induced to believe the worst about themselves and all too many of us do.

The irony of the situation is that too few of us are sophisticated enough to understand the toll this takes in terms of power and dollars and cents. The fallout from this leads us to believe that our own doctors, lawyers, dentists and other professionals are inferior. It leads us to make excuses for black politicians who deliver to and for others but not to and for us.

We are good, sound Americans. We must demand to be treated as such. Our hopes and our expectations should be based on our positive presence and not our negative images. We have more control over our presence than our images.
